Select Poetry.

BETTER LATE THAN NEVER.

Life is like a race where some succeed,
While others are beginning;
'Tis luck in some, in others speed,
That gives an early winning;
But if you chance to fall behind,
Ne'er slacken your endeavor;
Just keep this wholesome truth in mind,
"'Tis better late than never!"

And if you keep ahead, 'tis well,
But never trip your neighbor;
'Tis noble when you can excel
By honest, patient labor;
But if you are outstripped at last,
Press on as bold as ever;
Remember, though you are surpassed,
"'Tis better late than never!"

Ne'er labor for an idle boast,
Or victory o'er another;
But while you strive your utmost,
Deal fairly with a brother;
Whate'er your station, do your best,
And hold your purpose ever,
And if you fail to do the rest,
"'Tis better late than ever!"

Choose well the path in which you run,
Succeed by noble daring;
Then though the last, when once'tis won,
Your crown is worth the wearing;
Then never fret if left behind,
Nor slacken your endeavor,
But ever keep this truth in mind,
"'Tis better late than never!"

Choice Miscellany,

"DEAD BROKE."

"He is dead broke."

"How much does he owe?"

"One week, to-morrow, over the month," said the clerk, examining the ledger.

"Whew!" whistled the landlord "Has he no friends to pay for him?"

"Plenty of friends now; but let them find out that he is broke, and they'll be off like a covy of birds."

"I must see him;" and the hotel proprietor, walking out upon the piazza, approached a young man leaning against one of the front pillars.

"Mr. Watson, your bill, I see, is in arrears one week over the settlement day. Why is it?"

The young man flushed at first as if in anger; then a smile overspread his handsome face. "I know I am a delinquent, Major Snow; but I can't pay at present."

"Do you expect money soon?"

"Well, really, I don't know who should send me anything from their surfeit of cash."

"Then I am to understand that you are not only unable to pay, but do not expect to be able?"

"Undoubtedly, Major."

"Sorry, Watson, for you have been a favorite of the season, and I don't like to turn you out before the break-up. Nor will I. If you can give up your suit of rooms, and take up with one suited to your circumstances, I will let you remain the season out, trusting you to pay me in the future."

"You are very good, Major, and I guess I'll have to consent."

So the baggage of Robert Watson was lifted and borne from the elegant suit on the second floor to a little seven by fourteen room on the fifth floor.

How quickly it became known that the change had been made! Every servant in the house betrayed the knowledge in the absence of the usual deference paid to the possessors of "parlors." At dinner, the "boy," who had been only too eager to anticipate Mr. Watson's wants, suddenly became oblivious to those wants, and only answered them after repeated orders. The cashier and register clerk, always so obsequious, grew dignified and indifferent. Only the urbane Major preserved a kindly greeting for the guest too poor to pay his bill, and remaining by sufferance.

"Queer," thought the hotel proprietor. "He deposited a cool five thousand in the safe. He hasn't been fast, I am certain, and his habits have been so good that the young bloods have rather played off from him. But he has been a favorite. Not a belle in the room but would have dropped her best friend for his attendance.—Hang me if I can understand it."

Watson, hailing from Baltimore, had been a season guest at the Cascade.—Friends he had plenty. He was courageous, well bred, good looking, intelligent, and, apparently, rich; what more could be asked? Among the ladies he had moved quite a prince, and many were the gossamer webs woven as toils to capture him; but, to all, he proved a very incorrigible recusant—he would not be any one's prize. The exquisite charm of voice, manner and sentiment, the beauty of person, the elegance of attire—all were agreeable to him, deeply so, for he seemed to enjoy them all immensely; but not the brilliant poetess, Miss. Mountjoy, nor the coy and artless Miss. Dumain, nor he rattle-headed young Miss. Lambert, nor the haughty, elegant and exclusive Miss. Percy, nor the very rich Miss. Oromanes, appeared to command him. He was, to all alike, the agreeable companion, the candid friend, the shrewd resistant of all arts to lead him into loves labrynthine mazes.

How would all these beauties of the season receive the announcement sure to be made of his "altered circumstances," as the Major expressed it?

Evidently, Mr. Watson was not indifferent. He still frequented the piazzas and parlors, giving every friend, male and female, ample opportunity to "cut" his acquaintance, or otherwise to express themselves. It was somewhat curious to note the progress of his decline—not his fall—for Watson had that in his character construction which, even in poverty and trial, would preserve him from a sacrifice of personal dignity and self-reliance. But that he was on the decline, became to him a sorrowful fact.

Sorrowful, did we say? That is, judging by the usual standard of human felicity and misery. To lose one's friends—to behold your position in society gradually slipping away—to realize that no longer you are held in coveted consideration by a chosen few, is ordinarily a source of sorrow and pain. But in Watson's case it was diffilut to tell how keenly the knife cut to the quick of his sensibilities; for, while every acquaintance was given full facilities for doing the disagreeable office of giving the "cold shoulder," the Baltimorian appeared like an interested spectator, and appeared as unmoved, when passed by a supposed friend without the slightest notice, as if he were a newspaper reporter, anxious to see the act, and note the fact.

Into the parlors, during the evening, he particularly pressed his way. If a bevy of gay fellows surrounded Miss. Mountjoy, he worked his way to the circle, and, at last, received from that lady of Sappho-like lips his discharge. She did, most gracefully and crushingly, turn her back upon him not three days after his removal from the second floor.

Miss Dumain he sought, confident that one so artless certainly would be above the hollow-hearted crowd, and still give him her friendly greeting. Vain conception! The artless girl was coy indeed; and when, at length, he cornered her, it was to his discomfiture. She suddenly turned and forced her way past him, without even one of her downcast glances. On the contrary, her eyes were fixed fully on his face, and plainly said, "Sir, we are strangers."

Next he tried rattle headed Miss. Lambert, and she rattled on quite as usual; but Watson soon discovered that the rattle was not for him.

Strangely enough, the proud and exclusive Miss. Percy unbent somewhat from her lofty carriage, and gave him a welcome; but over it all was a shadow—a fear, apparently, which made Miss. Percy shy, rather than haughty; and Watson began to catch glimpses of a character beneath that conventional veil which he had not expected to find.

Of course the wealthy Miss. Oromanes would scorn his farther friendly relations. Her rooms were near his own second floor appartments; she daily, all the season, had encountered him in his walks through the long corridor, and must have been one of the first to learn of his fallen fortunes. Indeed he half surmised that her dressing maid had made special inquiry into his case, seeing her confidential confab with the floor stewardess and room girls. So Watson, with a reserve or pride not entertained with others, kept apart from Miss. Oromanes.

On the third evening of his changed fortunes, when the Sappho of the Cascades annihilated him, greatly to the pleasure of the young "bloods" around her, Watson wandered away at length upon the piazzas, then up through the long, deserted halls, restless, thoughtful, digesting the notes which he had been taking of human nature, and trying to fix the relative value of a man without money. It was the crystaline truth he was learning—not the truth in mere solution, sometimes clear, sometimes opaque, but always thin, but the precipitated, hard, angular, clear cut crystals of experience, mined in unexpected places. Had he remained upon the second floor never would he have obtained the gems; the mere solution only would have repaid his keenest search. But that migration to the upper spaces had given him a wondrous lens; his horizon was so immeasurably extended that, barring the fact that his bill was unpaid, he was the happier, because wiser for the upward reverse.

Suddenly, in his solitary promenade, he confronted the heiress. She was walking arm in arm with young Evans of her "set," in confidential communication it would appear, else why should they have been in that long hall alone? asked Watson, as, with a glance, he took in the situation. The meeting was a surprise to both parties, and the inclination of both men was to pass without recognition.—Evans, indeed, frowned; Watson flushed in anger, and, with head erect, bore down and passed his enemies, like a suspended or cashiered officer of the line, conscious of his soldierly qualities; but equally conscious of his "altered circumstances."

Too high he held his head, in fact, for he caught no soft glance from the lady's eye, and trod so firmly upon the trail of her elegant evening dress as to cause a perceptible cracking of seems at the skirt plaits. Evans turned with a sudden anger.

"Dolt!" he hissed.

Watson passed, not staying to make an apology; but he heard the lady say,

"Fie, it is nothing;" and he was conscious, too, that she was looking at him wonderingly.

An hour later Watson was down on the piazzas agian, evidently on the quest for some person, and he found his man ere long. Evans was the gentleman wanted. Going up to him Watson said:

"Mr. Evans, what was the word you used at the time I trod on the trail of Miss. Oromanes' dress?"

"I said dolt, sir! and I say it again.

We have hitherto supposed you to be a gentleman, and now learn that you cannot pay your bills;" and he laughed, half in scorn, and half in honor of the fact so opportunely given him to crush another.

The hot blood flew to Watson's face; his hands were clenched as if to strike; but, by a strong effort, he mastered his passion.

"Evans, no gentleman ever would have uttered that sentence. Only a coward would fling another's poverty in his face. Miss Oromanes, educated as she has been to give virture to wealth might find in my inability to pay my hotel bill a justification for dropping my acquaintance; but I doubt if even she would have countenanced incivility. I owe her an apology for my seeming rudeness, and will give it to her, but you I hold in too supreme contempt even to exchange words with you.—Hereafter do not speak to me, for if you do I shall slap your face, even in the presence of the ladies." And the speaker went his way to his attic room.

This scene, overheard by several gentleman and ladies, soon was the talk of the rooms. Evans, being a recognized leader of a very aristocratic circle, soon convened others of the set, and Major Snow was, ere long, summoned to be informed to "clear out Watson"—Evans offering to pay the delinquent's bill.

And the news flew throughout the parlors and promenades that Major Snow was to give Mr. Robert Watson, of Baltimore, his walking papers in the morning.

An observer of the scene between the two gentlemen on the piazza, was Miss Oromanes. Having at once retired to her room to repair the accident to her skirt, the lady donned another dress, and, to enjoy half an hour undisturbed, stole out upon the pleasant open weather promenade. She, too, retired, in evident excitement, to her rooms; and when her maid, half an hour later, brought the house-news that the Major was to clear Watson out in the morning the heiress, with perfect deliberation, but with brightened color in her cheeks and a clear sparkle in her beautiful eyes, sat down to her desk and indited the following note:

"Major Snow will please take no action in the matter of the difference between Mr. Watson and Mr. Evans. I overheard every word that passed between the gentleman, and I fully justify Mr. Watson. Were it not an insult to him, I would offer to become responsible for any amount which he may not now be able to pay; but I know that he is a thorough gentleman, and would equally scorn to wrong you or to leave your house at the dictation of others.

I am, sir, yours,
"HELEN OROMANE."

This the maid was instructed to place in the hands of the Major at once. The maid had not far to go, for she met the proprietor advancing up the stairway. He glanced at the billet paused and said:

"No use of my trip up five pair of stairs. Mr. Robert Watson has the freedom of this house for the next five seasons."

And down stairs he went again, while the open-eared maid, having lost not a word, returned to her mistress to find her absorbed in penning another note. This was written with great care, and many pauses. It was finally finished and read as follows.

"Mr. Watson will please excuse the boldness of this note; but, having been a witness to the meeting between yourself and Mr. Evans on the piazza, I feel it incumbent on me to say that I fully justify your proceedings and your words. I ask no apology from you. Indeed, I will be pained to receive it. Believe me, I am exceedingly pained at the inference you have drawn, namely: that I could find a justification in dropping your acquaintance in the fact of your temporary embarrassment. Alas for my riches! if they compel me to bear such imputations on my sense and motives!

I am, sir, yours very sincerely,
"HELEN OROMANES."

This missive the maid bore to the fifth story. It found the romantic Robert in bed; but the latter was flung in over the door ventilator.

"A letter for Monseiur Watson from my lady," said a voice at the door; and Watson sprang up as the envelope floated down to his feet.

"A note from my lady!" What on earth did that mean? Another rumpus brewing, of course! Turning on the gas he read—astonished, pleased, delighted, as the rich color mounting to his temples, testified. And then, foolish man, he kissed the note.

So very preposterous for one in his circumstances.

Many were the guests who "turned out" fully two hours before their usual ten o'clock breakfast the next morning, in order to see Mr. Robert Watson depart. To their surprise there was Watson, cheerful and content, promenading up and down the back piazza, arm in arm with Miss Oromanes, and Major Snow looking on admiringly. To Evans and his set it was a declaration of war; but who would dare take up arms against the spirited heiress to a million? They all retired, resolved to let events take their course.

And they did take their course, of course. In three days time a magnificent equipage drove to the stand, and Watson soon appeared with the beautiful Miss Oromanes for his companion in the morning drive.

"Whose equipage is that?" demanded Evans of the Major, who had escorted his guests to the carriage.

"Oh, that's Watson's, to be sure!" was the response.

"Watson's be hanged!" Say, Major has he paid his bill?" asked Evans, maliciously.

"Paid his bill? Lord bless you, he is rich enough to buy out this whole concern, and to hire you and me for call boys!"

"Explain yourself then, sir!" demanded Evans, irately. "Did you not inform the guests that he could not pay, his bill, and that you had sent him up stairs out of his second-floor suit?"

"Not I! Some of the clerks may have said something, to which others added more; but I really thought too much of the gentleman to mention the matter o any one. Now it turns out that it was all a little game of his own."

"Little game? What object could he have had in playing such a hide and seek?" demanded Evans, in a tone peremptory.

"Well, in part, I suppose, to test the value of friendship in general, and the power of money in particular—both of which I have no doubt he has done to his entire satisfaction. Ha ha-ha!—What think you about it, Mr. Evans?"

"Think about it? Why, it was—it was—"

"What?"

"Why, a very artful dodge—nothing less."

"Capitol dodge, that's a fact, seeing that, as a poor man, he won Miss Oromanes, and—"

"Now, what do you mean?" fairly shouted Evans in his excitement.

"Mean? That before ten o'clock on the morning of the day when he was to have his walking papers by your orders, he was dead in love with the heiress, and—"

"And what, sir?"

"And she dead in love with him."

"It's false, I know!" cried the man, now white in the face with some inexplicable emotion.

"False, eh? Going off in that carriage together to the preachers—looks like it, don't it."

"Good Heavens!"

The Major's conjecture was premeture, as he well knew: but the shaft had struck Evans to the heart, and he fairly staggered to a seat, Evans had played a long and deep game to win the hieress. He had long been her recognized suitor—he discounted her possessions in his gay life; and the result was, he was dead broke.

He left the watering place that day.

A TEACHER wishing to explain to a little girl the manner in which a lobster casts its shell when it has outgrown it, said: "What do you do when you have outgrown your clothes? You throw them aside, don't you?" "Oh, no," replied the little one, "we let out the tucks."

Gen. Cass's Fortune---How it Was Made.

The Lansing (Michigan) Republican gives an interesting account of the manner in which the late Lewis Cass made his fortune, from which we extracts the following particulars:

"General Cass laid the foundation of his fortune while in the public service as Territorial Governor from 1841 to 1831. He received a handsome salary regularly in gold coin, and for a part of the time he got double pay as Indian Commissioner and Governor both.

"But most of Cass's money was made on a farm of about 200 acres which he bought, within the limits of Detroit, lying only four blocks west of the new City Hall, and extending from the river back one mile or more. He purchased this farm about the year 1830 for $12,000, paying 10,000 cash down and giving his note for $2,000—the only note he ever signed.

"Detroit was at the time a straggling little village of wooden buildings, containing only 2,222 inhabitants. Gen. Cass did not seem to have made a great speculation, and when he was offered $25,000 for the farm—more than doubling his investment in less than three years he thought seriously of closing with the offer and 'selling out.' But he asked the advice of an intelligent eastern business man who was visiting him in Detroit. After dinner, one day, the two gentleman walked over the farm from the river bank to its outer boundaries.

"Said General Cass's friend to him: 'if you wish to sell the farm, I will give you $50,000 for it.'

"Oh, then my mind is made up; I will not sell at all,' replied the General.

"He held on to this piece of real estate and became very rich through the industry and enterprise of others around him. He finally sold at good prices scattering lots, giving ten years' time for most of the purchase money, with interests at seven per cent., but stipulating always that buildings of considerable value should be erected on the lots within a short period. He issued land contracts of the above nature, but no deeds until the purchase money was all paid up.

"He also made a lucky hit by giving a large lot for a Union school house, in the midst of his farm, on condition that the city should erect a handsome brick building and iron fence around it, within a given time, and name the school-house after him. 'The Cass Union School' rapidly increased the value of all lots in its neighborhood.

"General Cass avoided litigation, and even in his will provided for settling, by arbitration, any disputes that might arise over his property. His lots years were clouded with the fear that his family would come to want, and be left not a dollar to any public or charitable object."

Her Own Avenger.

This is the remarkable story of Celestine Fejervary, a wealthy young lady of Davenport, Iowa:

Recently a story was circulated affecting her chastity. She waited until some responsible person could be proved to have helped to circulate it. This proved to be no less a man than Mayor Renwick. He had thoughtlessly told the story as it came tohim, and told it as deploring it if it were true. Miss. Fejervary promptly sued him. She was cleared of the slander during the progress of the trial; but, because it was found that Mayor Renwick had no thought of vile intent in what he said, the verdict was in his favor. Miss. F. has published a card, in whic she says: "First of all, the failure of the jury to agree does not, and cannot terminate the suit, and, should the best years of my life be spent in the endeavor, I will not rest until a verdict has been given for or against me, and, either at this court, or a higher one, an example set, not only to my, but all slanderers; nor, in bringing this suit, I have not been unmindful of the many innocent girls whom I have seen injured as shamefully as I have been, and much less aple to defend themselves. As for the choice of this example, it fell on the first man against whom we had good proofs of his having repeated the slander in its most aggravated form, (a fact which he now denies,) and one who, as being an old and respected citizen, should have been the last to have given his countenance to so foul a wrong.

BEAUTIFUL COMPARISON.—Rev. T. Dewitt Talmadge, now of Brooklyn, closed a sermon as follows: "Seated at a country fireside the other day, I saw the fire kindle, blaze and go out, and I gathered up from the hearth enough for many reflections. Our mortal life is just like the fire on that hearth. We burst through and up, and out; gay of sparkle, gay of flash, gay of crackle—emblems of boyhood. Then the fire reddens into coals. The heat is fiercer, and the more it is stirred, the more it reddens. With sweep of flame it clears its way till all the hearth glows with the intensity—emblem of full manhood. Then comes a whiteness in the coals. The heat lessens. The flickering shadows have died along the walls. The fagots drop apart. The household hovers over the expiring embers. The last breath of smoke has been lost in the chimney. Fire is out. Shovel up the white remains—ashes!"

SOME wags took a drunken fellow, placed him in a coffin with the lid so that he could raise it, placed him in a graveyard, and waited to see the effect. After a short time the fumes of the liquor left him, and his position being rather confined, he sat upright, and, after looking around, exclaimed, "Well, I'm the first that's riz, or else I'm confoundedly belated."

A western lady is writing in favor of limited marriages, for a given time, ranging from one to three years, with the privilege of renewal by mutual consent.

"Didn't you garantee, sir, that this horse would not shy before the fire of an enemy?" "No more he won't. 'Tisn't till after the fire that he shies."

Whit Sunday, in West Penn township, Schuylkill county, was celebrated by twelve weddings! A good day for the parsons.

There are no State officers to elect in Pennsylvania this year, an there will consequently be no State Convention.

Washington Correspondence.

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 29,'70.

MR. EDITOR:—I have thought that a few jottings from the National Capital might not be uninteresting to the readers of your valuable paper.

There are many interesting little incidents occurring here daily, which never find their way out among the people of our country, unless through the medium of direct correspondence. Congressional correspondents always have an eye to their own private interests, and only pick up the items and detail the news which emblazon their would be heroes, or redound to the notoriety and benefit of the particular locality from whence comes their bread and butter.

The "doings" of our member, I venture to say, barely ever reach the papers in detail, which are able to keep their own correspondents here, and, consequently, are as little known to his constituents, as to the people of New York or Philadelphia. I, of course, don't refer to his acts of a National character, for these are disseminated through the Congressional records upon an equality with all the members, but to the res gestae, as the lawyers say, which go to make up his Congressional history.

It will certainly not be denied that our Member is a model of propriety, and his gentlemanly deportment has won him not a few friends during his short sojourn here, and it is conceded by all, that our district has been honestly and faithfully represented.

The subjects which have commanded the greatest interest, both in and out of Congress, within the last few days, were the Cuban question and the admission of the Rev. Whittemore, the cadet jobber, from South Carolina.

As to the former, although there was much feeling and great enthusiasm manifested, both in the House and in the gallery for the suffering Cuban, it was settled upon the common sense, practical views of the President. Every one knows that his sympathies, in common with the whole American people, are with the people struggling for liberty and independence, but there is something more than sympathy which must govern his actions, and the people will respect his adherence to the plain maxims of law, rather than any Executive development of a purely sympathetic policy.

The "Cadet Broker" got nothing more than his just deserts. The circumstances are few, indeed, which may be offered for a Minister's desertion of his sacred calling; but when a man in robust health, and seemingly in the prime of his usefulness, leaves the pulpit to embark in a pursuit attended with such uncertain morals as politics, at best, and disgraces that profession by a course of conduct which the vilest of the class cannot help but denounce, it shows conclusively that his professions, from the beginning, have been shrouded by a species of moral obliquity incompatible with the enlightened sentiment of a christian community, and certainly with the dignity and decorum which should characterise the high places of the Nation. There are others in the House who escaped by the skin of their teeth. Although they succeeded in making out a good defense, still the stigma hangs onto them like grim death, and it will be a long time before they get rid of its damning touch.

It is with pleasure that we find Gov. Geary watching, with such fidelity, the public monies of the State. It is a serious charge that he makes against the last Legislature, and he will, no doubt, be held personally accountable for it; but if true, and he is well convinced of it, it is the duty of every honest voter in the State, irrespective of party, to stand by him.

Pennsylvania occupies too high a position among the States, and wields too much influence in national politics, to be left in the hands of mere scheming tricksters, who have nothing at heart but their own personal or political aggrandizement. It should be the earnest duty of every man who has the interest of his State, and the welfare of his common country at heart, to thoroughly investigate every avenue to fraud, and use every means in his power to purge the body politic wherever it is found unclean.

It is only to wise and judicious legislation, and to the strict enforcement of it, that we can look for the perpetuity and advancement of our institutions.

Very truly, &c.,

BRIG.

NO FEE FOR THIS ADVICE.—After it is too late to protect them against fraud, many of our people learn the importance of putting a seal after their signature, when attached to a promissory note.—When there is no seal, and the note is transferred to a third party before it becomes due, the maker thereof can offer no defence in law against its payment, no matter that he may have paid most of it to the second party, or been wholly swindled in the consideration for which it was given. But a seal following his signature, no matter in whose hands he may find his note, secures to the giver thereof the right to prove full, or part payment thereof, or the want of consideration therefor. Patent-right men, particularly if they are on the swindle, in selling a thing, that is not patented, or a patented thing, to which they have no right whatever, are always anxious to get notes on time without seals, so that they can readily dispose of them for what they will bring, making a very large discount to get the money. A seal protects against this transaction; and every person giving notes ought to know what they are doing. A little caution in this matter may protect against sharp practice, but can hurt no honest man.

WHAT A MAN DOES IN HALF A CENTURY..According to the French statician, taking the mean of many accounts, a man of fifty years of age has slept 6,000 days, worked 6,500 days, walked 800 days, amused himself 4,000 days, was eating 1,500 days, was sick 500 days, etc. He ate 17,000 pounds of bread, 16,000 pounds of meat, 4,600 pounds of vegetables, eggs and fish, and drank 7,000 gallons of liquid, viz: water, coffee, tea, beer, wine, etc., all together. This would make a respectable lake of 300 square feet surface and three feet deep, on which a small steamboat could navigate. And all this solid and liquid material passing through a human being in fifty years!

THE REPUBLICAN.

W. W. BROWN, ... Editor.

Terms: $2.00 Per Annum in Advance.

BELLEFONTE, PA.,

Wednesday Morning, July 13, 1870.

BARGAINS! BARGAINS!!

The Bellefonte REPUBLICAN and the "American Agriculturist."

We are now prepared to offer the people of Centre county, a Great Bargain for the coming year. It is this: To every subscriber who will send us $3.00 in advance, we will send the

BELLEFONTE "REPUBLICAN,"

and the

for one year. Of the Republican we need not speak at present.

The American Agriculturist is a work that no farmer nor housekeeper should be without. As a farm-journal we think it has no superior in the world—certainly none in the United States. It is issued monthly, and the subscription price is $1.50 per annum. By clubing with the Republican you save fifty cents,and secure more good reading matter than you can obtain in any other way for the same money,

We hope the reading public will avail themselves of this very liberal offer.

MATERIAL FOR SALE!

Having purchased the "Bellefonte National" Printing office, for the purpose of consolidating with the Bellefonte Republican, we now offer for sale a complete out-fit for a country newspaper office, including one Liberty Job Press, Stands, Cases, Stones, &c., &c., all of which we will sell at remarkably low prices, for cash or good paper.

We ask it as a special favor that our contemporaries make a note of this or copy it one time.

Propietor Bellefonte Repuplican.

A SPECK OF WAR.

Some two years ago the people of Spain compelled their Queen, Isabell, to leave their country, and lately to abdicate her right to the crown. Since then the Spanish people have been blessed,or cursed, as the case may be, with a Provisional government, with a person by the name of Prim as Prime Minister.

Prim, in search of a person to wear the crown of Spain, has visited nearly all the Princely beggers of Europe, and offered them the crown, and all but one peremtorily refused. That one was Prince Hohenzollern, now residing in Prussia, bet in no way related to the royal family of the country.

By his accepting Prim's offer, France has become greatly excited, and demands of Prussia that she prevent Hohenzollern from accepting. Prussia replies that she has nothing to do in regard to the Princes' acceptance of the crown of Spain, or any other country.

This reply has given umbrage to Napolean III, and he has commenced warlike movement towards the borders of Prussia. Prussia remains calm, but firm, in her representations; but, meanwhile, her army is being placed on war footing, and most any day we may hear of the clash of arms along the Rhenish border.

In the meanwhile it is reported that France has made alliance with Denmark, Sweeden, Italy and Austria, and Prussia with Spain. If Napoleon should succeed in forcing a war on Prussia, then we may look for a general European war, the result of which, on this country, time only can tell. We wait, with some feeling of anxiety, further news from Europe.

THE PENNSVALLEY RAILROAD.

The prospects for the building of the L. C. & S. C. Railroad are, from all we can learn, growing brighter every day. Gregg township, which has, under the leadership of her enterprising citizen, R. H. Duncan, Esq., been always in the advance guard in this great and important work has raised every dollar of subscription, and the right of way has been secured through the entire township. This shows what willing and wealthy men can do when urged and prompted to duty by an energetic leader. All honor to Gregg township, her enterprising farmers, and their champion, R. H. Duncan. The following important letter has been handed us for publication:

Philadelphia, July 1, 1870.

Sir:—In answer to yours of the 27th ult., I send you copy of resolution asked for, as follows:

Resolved, That any person, whose former subscriptions have been forfeited to this company, and who may have, or will make, respectively, new subscriptions for capital stock, for not less than the respective number of shares so forfeited, shall be allowed a credit thereon of any sums they have heretofore paid upon their subscription so forfeited.

The above resolution was adopted at meeting of the Board, June 15th, '70.

Jos. Lesley, Sec'y.

R. H. Duncan, Spring Mills, Pa.

Now, let our indefatigable friend, J. P. Cobern, Esq., Dr. E. J. Deshler, Dr. Musser, and other frienda of the road, send us a good report from Haines tp.?

We want to hear from Potter. What are you doing? Why is Gregg tp. so far in advance of you? Are you not more wealthy than Gregg? Have you no local pride, to say nothing of the financial benefit the building of this road will be to you? Will Geo. Odenkirk, R. H. Porter, Wm. Wolf, Geo. Durst, Peter Hoffer, Jos. L. Shirk, Jno. Boozer, the Thompson Bro's, and other untiring friends of this enterprise answer these questions?

Will Sam'l H. Stover, Geo. Jack, Esq., Moses Thompson, Wm. McFarlane, Col. Robert McFarlane, Henry Moyer, Dan. Hess, Thomas Dale, E. D. Brisbin, and other men who have worked night and day for the completion of this road tell what the prospects are in Harris tp.

Capt. Jas. Dunlap J. Irwin Ross. B. Ayers, of Ferguson tp., what are you doing? Are you going to fold your arms and suffer yourselves to be deprived of the benefit of this road. Do you intend that the terminus shall be at Boalsburg, or still lower down the valley? To all we appeal to go to work at once. There has been talk and jangling and wrangling sufficient to build a dozen such roads. Cease talking. Go to work.—Pull out your long and plethoric purses and subscribe. Subscribe every dollar you can pay without injuring your business, and, our word for it, it will all come back in less than five years with a hundred per cent. interest. We go for the road through the entire valley.

The Bright Side.—This vigorous young "paper for all children" now visits its readers every week, instead of once a month as formerly. It would not be unwelcome, if like the sunshine, it should come every day. $1.00 a year. Specimen copies free. Address, The Bright Side, Chicago, Ill.

A weak solution of phosphoric acid is aid to be a strong poison for all kinds of insects, and yet to be beneficial to plants by adding to the soil. It is predicted that it will be extensively used in agriculture.

WORK OF CONGRESSMEN.

The following excellent and truthful article we clip from the Phil'a Press of the 11th inst. We request its careful perusal by our readers; then tell us if we are not too exacting of, and too selfish with our public servants, while we do too little towards aiding them in making their appointments, or in keeping them well posted in regard to the welfare of their respective districts. Read it, we repeat, then tell us if you can find it in your hearts to condemn a faithful member of Congress, who may miss one vote, or be absent from his seat one day, whether the missing of that vote, or that single day's absence is occasioned by neglect, or by accident, storm or flood. Our doctrine is to all true Republicans, stand by your faithful, talented and true Congressman as you stood by the Government in its gloomiest and most perilous hour. The same wiley enemy who then sought the nation's life, is now endeavoring to accomplish the same purpose in their wicked efforts to destroy the confidence of the loyal masses in their Congressmen. But read the article:

"Conscientious public service is always laborious, and frequently thankless. A Senator or Representative in Congress who attends to his duties has absolutely no time he can call his own. The chairmen of all the important committees are among the hardest-worked men in the country. They have, first of all, their correspondence which, if they would stand well at home, must be promptly attended to, and often necessitates visits or writing to the various heads of the bureaus or departments.—Then come their committee meetings, which generally begin at 10 o'clock in the morning, and sometimes earlier, and sit till the hour of the noon meeting of the two houses, and, on special occasions, are convened in the evening.—The House Committees of Elections, Ways and Means, and Appropriations, sit every morning; Banking and Currency, Tuesdays and Fridays; Public Lands, Mondays and Thursdays; Claims, Tuesdays and Fridays, and all the others once a week, or at the call of the chairman, with one exception, Private Land Claims, which meets twice a month.—The Senate standing committees meet once a week, but are in extra session just now much oftener. The committee rooms are generally occupied on the off days by the chairman and their clerks, or short-hand reporters. One gets an idea of the enormous obligations and resources of the Government by watching the regular operations of these standing committees. At the same time we contrast the growth of the nation from the period of a little more than fifty years ago, when the Patent Office was confined in a small, two-story brick building on Eighth street, Washington; when there was no Department of the Interior; a very small General Post Office; no Land Office of any consequence; when our debt was trifling compared with the present, and when our population was not more than five millions.

"The attendance upon the sessions of Congress is even more exacting and irksome. A good Senator or Representative is always in his seat; and if he is chairman of a regular standing committee, he cannot afford to be absent a moment. The most informal debate may call him to his feet, and measures in which he is deeply interested may be lost in his absence. The appropriation bills demand incessent watching, and the Senator and Representative charged with their defence or explanation must be always at their post. The tariff bill consumed many weeks of the House, and the Committee of Ways and Means, headed by General Schenck, had a continuous toil in presenting its main feature to the House. The struggle on the tax bill has not been less earnest. The military bill, the several railroad bills, the Indian bill, the naturalization bill, with a host of private matters, indicate the stupendous business of the country, and the almost incalculable labors of the members of both houses of Congress.—How much leisure these men have—those of them who honestly discharge their obligations—is easily calculated. They are simply slaves to duty. And now, when the adjournment is only a few days distant, they have scarcely time to sleep. Now is the time to watch most closely. Many a "snake" gets into a bill at the last hour, coiled there quietly by some cunning hand, to be disclosed when duly passed and signed, fraught with some merely selfish purpose.—Measures are hurried through with lightning speed. Conference committees, with their large discretion, are in continuous session, and messages from the President to the Senate in executive session of almost daily occurrence.

"It is a question whether all the honors and the pay attached to Congressional life are a sufficient compensation for the vexation and constant attention to business it imposes upon our public servants.

The Lewisburg Gazette says: "General John P. Taylor, a gentleman who distinguished himself as a cavalry officer in the late rebellion, now residing in Kishacoquillas Valley, Mifflin county Pennsylvania, upon the site of an old Indian town, and less than a mile from the camp and spring of the celebrated Chief Logan, in digging to repair the foundation of an old house that has stood sixty-five or seventy years, he found imbeded in the earth about four feet under the surface, a silver tea spoon with the name, 'Wm. Penn,' handsomely engraved upon it, as also the name of maker, trade mark, etc. The spoon is perfect and the engraving perfectly legible. Is it part of the purchase money given by Wm Penn to the Indians for Pennsylvania, and may it not have once been the property of the great Chief Logan?"

Fire at Lewisburg.—The Buffalo House and two stables adjacent were entirely destroyed by fire at Lewisburg, on Friday night, 30th ult. Suspicions are entertained that it was the work of an incendiary. Mr. Quigley, the proprietor, sustains a severe loss as most of the furniture beding &c. were consumed. He had but recently purchased the property and furnished the house.—Fortunately $5.000 of the loss is covered by insurance. We have not learned in what companies.—Mifflinburg Telegraph.

GRANT AND THE REPUBLICAN PARTY.

[From the New York Herald.]

There are two or three soreheads among the Republican journals of this city, and here and there a lame duck among the party journals of the country, East and West, which agree at least upon one thing, viz: That General Grant in his appointments and in his policy has fallen short of their expectations. This, to be sure, is a matter of very little consequence, but still it is worth a passing notice. Each of these soreheads, puffed up with self-conceit, is grievously outraged that the Administration has not valued this one, that one, or the other at his own estimate. Here, for instance, is a perfect monomaniac on free trade, who, if he could have his way, would abolish all our custom-houses and substitute a direct tax on home manufacture, from which to supply the revenue now drawn from foreign goods; and because General Grant has not made this policy his policy, of course his Administration is pronounced by this free-trade monomaniac a lamentable failure. Again, here is a pretentious half-and-half concern which considers General Grant as falling into the decline of Andy Johnson in failing to make said half and-half organ the chief dispenser of the spoils for his particular bailiwick. And here is a rebellious fellow who has failed to get a custom-house, and there are other disappointed patriots in the matter of a fat post office, or consulate, or Territorial Governorship, or Indian agency, or something that would pay, and they are all badly and sadly disappointed in General Grant. There are some straggling members of Congress of the same way of thinking; but what does all this amount to?

It is only the old story that the offices haye given out before a third of the applicants have been supplied, and that some of the vainest and hungriest of the beggars are resolved upon revenge. We have had the same complaints, the same wranglings, and the same sort of bolters in the party camp under every Administration since there have been any spoils to divide worth fighting for. The New York custom-house has given more trouble to every President, from Jackson down, than all the fighting Indians in the United States, and so it will be, we suppose, for generations to come. No matter who is made collector, there is sure to be a fight over him among the squabbling cliques of office-beggars, and the party is threatened with destruction by Tom, Dick, and Harry if their demands, respectively, are not satisfied.

The Administration of General Grant, however, has higher duties to perform than the feeding of these blustering office-beggars, or the following of self-conceited policy-makers of one fanatical idea or a dozen impracticable notions. In maintaining peace, in restoring law and order throughout the country, in re-establishing public confidence in the national credit and currency and general prosperity in our business affairs, in reducing expenses and taxes, and in paying off the national debt, General Grant is doing very well. Let him persevere in this good work, and, whatever may be the growlings or howlings of disappointed soreheads, his Administration will be sustained by the country.

For the Republican.

Messrs. Editors:—In your paper of June 15th, ult., some person over the name of "Sphynx" seems very confident that the doctrine of infant sprinkling is not taught in the Gospel of the Son of God. He does not appear to know that this subject has been ably handled by many christian gentlemen of brilliant talents and of high literary attainments, with whose opinions he does not appear to be very well acquainted, nor do I think he has studied the Gospel very closely—especially those portions of it upon which we rely as proof of our favorite doctrine of infant sprinkling, and therefore would invite him to examine, very carefully, some of our strongest passages of scripture upon this point. For instance, where our Saviour says, "Suffer little children to come unto me, and forbid them not, &c." It is true that Baptism is not named in this connection; but, still, our Saviour had a desire that little children should be permitted to come unto Him, for some purpose or another; but we are not at a loss for Scripture enough in the Gospel where we find both Baptism and infants named in the same connection. Take the case of Lydia and her household, and the jailor and his family. In the case of Lydia and her household we have no doubt that there were infant children in it; and, therefore, must have been baptised by the Apostles. Now, we think we can soon satisfy "Sphynx" that this christian lady had small children, or infants, with her at Phillipi, although she was three hundred miles from home, on business, her home being at Syratira, and to make out a clear case, we have only to assume that Lydia was a married lady; and we must assume that she had children; and we must also assume that some of these were infants; and we must also assume that she had her infant children with her at Phillipi on this business trip. Now, we hope our friend "Sphynx" will agree that we have made out at least a fair case; for, this case we have our strong-hold, and upon this we rely, with full confidence, as proving infant sprinkling, clearly and conclusively, to be of divine origin; but, if any person should have any doubt on this subject, we would, with great confidence, refer him to our Creeds, and Confessions of Faith, where he will find an abundance of proof in in favor of this much cherished doctrine of many of our churches. In regard to the views of the writer above referred to on the subject of the new birth, I do not know that I have any disposition to differ from him; but, on the contrary, hold the same doctrine upon this subject that he does, and am fully satisfied that all Theologians, of any note, whose writings I have examined, hold that all persons who are baptised according to the Gospel, are regenerated, or born again. Luther and Calvin so teach. You find the same doctrine in the Creed of the Methodist church, and in the Confession of Faith of the Episcopal church, as well as in the Confession of Faith of the Presbyterian church. Indeed I do not know of any church that does not hold the same doctrine. But, as I must make no pretentions to a thorough knowledge of Theology, and as I may commit some blunder, I shall, therefore, leave this subject to the care of our clergymen who make the study of Theology their exclusive business. They may object to the source through which they can be heard—the Bellefonte Republican—it being a political paper, and still I can hardly think that this could be a serious objection, since so many of our Ministers do not hesitate to preach political sermons from their pulpits, and that, too, on the Sabbath day.

Pedo.

For the Republican.

Brick Pomeroy was in town week before last. Brick is a tolerably fair specimen of a newspaper man, being about 5 feet 8 inches in height, red head, (partly so, at least, the top being slightly barefoot,) sandy complexion, and moderately proportioned. Brick took occasion to console the working men of Bellefonte and vicinity, and, therefore, made a speech in the court-house on Thursday evening, the 30th ult.

With a good deal of suavity of manner, and mild and meaningless gesticulations, and moderately extravagant contortions of the body, he proceeded to inform his hearers—citizens of Bellefonte, mostly—that Centre county was composed—so far as his knowledge of it went, which is very meagre—of two valleys, one beautiful in its natural appearance, possessing rich and fertile soil, and is known as Pennsvalley, which, Brick said, was chiefly inhabited by Democrats, and, in this one particular instance, we believe Brick told the truth. He told us that the other valley was principally Republican in its population—that it was hilly and rough, and was known by the name of Bald Eagle.—Brick thought the two valleys were fit representations of the two parties peopling them. He failed to state, however, that the reason Democrats are fat, and full, and own rich lands is, that they are feasting on the results of forty year's plunder of the government, and that the Republicans have only had about ten, and they should not be expected to own such fine farms, &c,

Brick then proceeded to address his remarks especially to Republicans, as he thought Democrats were all right. He succeeded in telling them that he came very nearly being a Republican, and about the only reason he didn't become one was, that the Republican party was one of honesty, retrenchment and reform, and Brick thought the metamorphosis he would be abliged to undergo in order to become a member of an honest political party would be so great as to produce in his Democratic constitutionality, fearful convulsions, and might not be healthy, so he concluded to stay with the "rotten apples" of the Democracy, which he found more congenial to his nature and suitable to his composition. He made a wise choice, as honesty, retrenchment and reform are so averse to his nature that the Republican party would not have suited him at all.

Brick also enlightened the people in regard to the great fact that a number of prominent Democrats were now leading Republicans, which, of course, had not been generally known. He did not overlook the fact, nor fail to mention that Benjamin F. Butler had been a Democrat, and that he was now worshiped because of his great personal beauty, and succeeded in getting off the table spoon joke twice at poor Ben's expense.

After indulging in a few newspaper platitudes and diatribes with which he seemed familiar, he let drive his javiline at the Fifteenth Amendment, and poor Sambo, making strong assersions, exhorting to revolution, declaring what he would do if he were thus and so, and had the power, and called upon the sturdy yeomanry of the country to resist the Fifteenth Amendment, and burst things up in general.

On the whole, Brick's speech was rather a big thing, (in length,) and we can safely say the people who sweltered in the heat for one hour and three quarters, listening to him, will long remember him, and are grateful for his much enlightenment. The working men, no doubt, felt easier when he had finished.

In one sense, Brick may be denominated a success as a newspaper man, and is a live specimen of New York journalism. He travels with a woman upon whom, if names don't lie, another has stronger legal claims than himself. It is fair to presume, however, that she is on Brick's editorial staff.

Brick, as an educator of public sentiment to a higher tone, by either speech-making or writing, is a most miserable failure, and is working the ruin of the Democratic party.

CONGRESS

The Finances—The Currency Bill goes to the President—Important Revenue Decision—Disagreement of the two Houses on the Funding Bill—A Uniform time for the Election of Representatives—The Case of Pat Woods—Sumner's Cuban Resolution—Hon. Wm. H. Armstrong.

Washington, July 7, 1870.

CONFERENCE ON THE FUNDING BILL.

The managers of the conference on the funding bill on the part of the House were announced to-day. They are Messrs. Schenck, Hooper, and Brooks, all members of the Ways and Means Committee. The Senate managers are Senators Sherman, Sumner, and Davis. From the well-known sentiments of the members of this committee it is inferred that there will be no agreement, and that another conference will have to be appointed. The House managers are all firm advocates of the bill which passed that body, and the large vote it secured will justify them in standing out for it as against the Senate bill. The Senate managers are in favor, among other things of compelling the national banks to exchange their six per cent, bonds for the new bonds to be issued, whatever the interest on them may be. On this point Mr. Sherman may yield, but Mr. Sumner and Mr. Davis are fixed in their opinion that the bill, or any funding bill that may be passed without a compulsory section relative to the banks, would be inoperative.—There will be a sharp contest over the question of the interest on the bonds. Senator Sherman believes with Mr. Boutwell that the debt cannot be funded at the rate of interest proposed by the House, and that four and-a-half per cent, is as low as it should be fixed, especially if the rate is made uniform. It is possible that a compromise will be fixed upon at four and a half per cent.

THE SENATE AMENDMENTS TO THE TARIFF BILL.

The Senate amendments to the tax bill were, on motion of General Schenck, taken from the Speaker's table to-day and referred to the Ways and Means Committee, and ordered to be printed. The bill has been so much amended that it was requisite to have the amendments in print before either the members of the committee of the House could understand them. The committee will hold a meeting to morrow to consider the amendments, and General Schenck hopes to report them to the House at once for action. It is understood that some of the most important amendments made by the Senate will be agreed to by the committee, and favorable action upon them recommended. Among these are the amendments relative to the tax on incomes and the transportation of goods in bond from the seaboard cities to places in the interior. The bill will probably be sent to a committee of conference for final adjustment.

IMPORTANT REVENUE DECISION.

The Commissioner of Internal Revenue, in reply to an inquiry addressed to his office respecting the liabilities of wine manufacturers from grapes, berries, or fruits of their own growth, renders the following decision: 'Manufacturers of wine from grapes, berries, or fruits of their own growth are not liable to special tax as manufacturers or liquor dealers for selling such wine at the place where the same is made. Where such wines are sold, however, at any other place of manufacture, liability to payment of tax as liquor dealers is incurred; and where wines are manufactured from grapes, berries or fruits not of their own growth, they should pay special tax as manufacturers and as liquor dealers for selling their products, whether selling the same at the place of manufacture or otherwise.' This ruling reverses the decisions of former Commissioners.

CONGRESSIONAL REPRESENTATION.

The Senate to-day passed the bill to fix the time for holding the election for members of the House of Representatives. The time designated is the second Tuesday after the first Monday in November, and is made uniform throughout all the States. The bill apportioning members of Congress among the various States under the census of 1870 was put on as an amendment, and carried with the bill. An effort was made to make the number of Representatives two hundred and seventy-five, but that was defeated, and the number as originally fixed, three hundred, was allowed to remain. The bill now goes to the House, where it will meet with some opposition on account of the apportionment features. It will be remembered that the apportionment bill passed the Senate before, and was defeated in the House,

BUSINESS IN THE SENATE.

The Senate made good progress to-day, and in consequence of the disposition to cease talking two appropriation bills were got through, the naval and the fortification bills. The army and the sundry civil or omnibus appropriation bills are all that remain to be acted on by the Senate. The former would probably have been taken up and passed to-day, but for the request of Senator Wilson to have his army reorganization bill acted on first. If the Senate holds to the practice inaugurated to-day, viz: to cease debating, there will be no difficulty in getting through with all important business by the fifteenth.

PASSAGE OF THE CURRENCY BILL.

The action of the House to day in adopting the conference report on the currency bill settles that question, the report having already been adopted by the Senate. The bill now goes to the President. Taken altogether it is perhaps as satisfactory a measure as could be framed It does not give the West and South the additional currency which they clamored for, but it gives them twenty-five millions additional bank circulation, which will tend to ease their money markets.—The New England men were generally against it, because it will lessen their bank circulation.

THE CASE OF PAT WOODS

was disposed of to-day by sending Woods to jail for three months, as a punishment for assaulting Congressman Porter, of Virginia. The House came within one vote of agreeing to Butler's amendment confining him in jail until the 3d of March, 1871. It is understood that as soon as Congress adjourns Woods' counsel will apply to the courts for a writ of habeas corpus, so as to test the power of Congress to detain a prisoner in custody after the close of a session.

Washington, D. C., July 9, 1870.

THE TAX BILL.

The House spent nearly the whole day on the tax bill. Mr. Schenck reported it from the Committee, and a vote upon agreeing to the Senate amendment was proceeded to without debate. The House gave way to the Senate on the codification of the internal revenue laws. The Senate proposition on incomes, namely, two and a half per cent, and two thousand dollars exemption, was accepted. The limitation to two years was disagreed to. The reduced rates on Bessemer steel were sustained by a yea and nay vote, 99 to 71. The tax on receipts is abolished, the House accepting the Senate proposition. The port of entry sections were agreed to in the form already telegraphed. The principal matter sent to the Conference Committee, which was ordered after action was had on the bill, are teas, sugars, spices, liquors, wines, flax, cotton, and wrought and cast scrap iron.

LEGISLATIVE APPROPRIATION BILL.

Both houses agreed to the conference on the legislative appropriation bill, the Senate yielding most of the principal points of difference, such as the increase of salaries of judges, new State Department and extending the Capitol grounds, and the House yielding to the fifty thousand dollars for the Pollar expedition.

THE ARMY BILL.

The Senate to-day attached the army bill in the shape indicated last night to the army appropriation bill. General Logan will contest it sharply in the House, and it will be pretty certain to go to a committee of conference.

Washington, D. C., July 10, 1870.

THE APPROPRIATION BILLS.

There are five appropriation bills yet to finish this week before Congress adjourns. The Indian bill is in the Conference Committee, and has given rise to a great struggle, the point being, what recognition shall be made of treaties negotiated two years ago by the Peace Commission. The naval bill went into Dawes's Committee on Saturday, with a very considerable addition from the Senate. The army bill will to-morrow come before the House, with the Senate amendment regulating the pay and reducing the number of officers. It will probably go to Logan's committee for consideration. The omnibus bill passed the House two weeks ago, and will come up in the Senate to-morrow or next day. It is not likely to occupy more than one session. The Little deficiency bill passed the House on Friday, and can be put through the Senate in an hour or two on Wednesday or Thursday. It is not probable any of these bills will be lost, but there must be some active work in the Conference Committee to save all of them.

THE FUNDING BILL.

The members of the Conference Committee on the funding bill feel confident that an agreement will be reached. The House conferees have resolved to stand to gether on the Ways and Means bill, and think that the desire to perfect some measure will induce the Senate committee or some member of it to yield. They also believe that the Senate cannot afford to defeat their bill, by which it is proposed to fund at four per cent., especially when Gen. Schenck presents papers to prove, as he thinks, that a loan can be made at that figure. If the Senate finds that the House will not give way, It may agree to a long four per cent., bond, no commissions and no compulsory clause, and let the plan be tried during the coming recess rather than refuse and take the responsibility of failing to try the low rate of interests which the House believe can be secured. The conference meets in the morning.

SUMNER'S CUBAN RESOLUTIONS.

It seems likely that Sumner's Cuban resolutions will not again be heard of before adjournment. It is understood that at the time they were reported to the State Department was in such a situation that the Secretary believed he would soon be able to get England to join our Government in protesting against the way the war has been conducted in Cuba. They contain some language] that could not be agreeable to the British authorities and there is reason to know that the President thinks it would not be expedient to put them through Congress. The indications are that the whole subject, including the House resolution, will be allowed to go over to next session.

Hon. Wm. H. Armstrong, delivered in the House on the 11th inst.; another of his able and efficient speeches on the Funding Bill. Mr Armstrong has been right on this question all winter and it affords us great pleasure to see over two thirds of the House adopting his views. Why should not his constituents feel proud. What other new member has made so enviable a reputation?

Ballou's Monthly Magazine for August.—Prompt to time comes Ballou's Magazine for August, freighted with a remarkable store of good things in the shape of reading matter. THE OLD WAY AND THE NEW.
THE
GREAT AMERICAN TEA COMP'Y.
(Established 1861.)
Nos. 31, 33 & 35 Veysey St. New York, have appointed
D. M. WAGNER & SON,
Bellefonte, Pa.,
to sell their Teas and Coffees at the same prices that the Company sell them at their warehouses in New York. A full supply of the freshest New Crop Teas will be kept for sale at all times.
All goods warranted to give entire satisfaction or the money refunded.
Only one profit charged from the Producer to the Consumer. From five to eight profits saved by purchasing from this Company.
UNDER THE OLD SYSTEM of doing business, the consumer of teas had to pay about eight profits between the producer and himself, to cover as many intermediate sales
UNDER THE NEW SYSTEM
the Great American Tea Company distribute Teas to consumers, through their agents all over the country, subjecting them to but one profit, and that but a very moderate one, as a small percentage on the immense sales, will amply satisfy the Company. for they sell thousands of Chests of Tea, in the same or less time than it took to sell one chest under the old system.

LOST—$50 REWARD.—The above reward will be paid to the person who will return the Pocket Book of Geo. Durst, of Potter twp. It was lost on the 30th of May, somewhere between Bellefonte and Centre Hall, or in Bellefonte. It contained about $150 in greenbacks, and over $2,000 in valuable papers—valuable only to the owner. The above reward will be paid to any person leaving the Pocket Book, Money and Papers with Maj. P. B. Wilson, Bellefonte, or returning it to me.

THE REPUBLICAN.

Wednesday Morning, July 13, 1870.

LOCAL ITEMS.

For Rent.—A nice and convenient house, for a small family, to rent. Also a good young cow for sale on easy terms. Inquire of C. T. Fryberger. j13.

Coal Shed.—The Snow Shoe Coal Company have erected large sheds at their coal-yard in this place, for the purpose of protecting their coal from the weather.

Sunstruck.—Wm. Bracht, who resides near Millheim, this county, while working in a hay field, on the 5th inst., was "sunstruck." We are happy to hear of his recovery.

Whortle Berries.—The Allegheny mountains, in Snow Shoe tp., this county, all along the B. & S. S. Railroad, are literally covered with ripe whortle berries. It is estimated that thousands of bushels will go to waste for the want of picking.

Examinations.—The Teacher's Examination for Bellefonte borough will commence at 10 o'clock, on Friday, Aug. 19th. All who purpose teaching in the public schools of the borough are requested to attend. R. M. Magee, 2t. Co. Sup't.

Wheat.—Mr. C. Dale of Harris tp., left at our office last week, seven varieties of wheat. As we did not see him we failed to get the names of the different varieties. Mr. Dale is one of our most successful farmers, and should be good authority on the best varieties. Call again Mr. Dale.

Accident.—On the 30th ult., while Geo: Signor, and others, were engaged in rolling logs at the B. & S. Railroad Co.'s saw-mill, in Snow Shoe township, the logs got the start of them, several passing over Mr. Signor, mashing one of his legs in a horrible manner, and otherwise injuring him.

Diamond Drug Store.—Our friend F. S. Wilson has just received another large stock of fresh and pure drugs, perfumery, hair-brushes, fancy articles, &c. Mr. Wilson is a first-class druggist, and correct business man, and his chief clerk, Dr. Hillibish, has few equals, if any, as a druggist and chemist.

Runaway.—On the 27th ult., while Mr. George Taylor, of Boggs township, was harrowing his corn, with his little daughter riding the horses, the B. & S. S. train came along, frightening the horses, which ran away, throwing the little girl to the ground, who, we are happy to learn, escaped without much injury.

Campmeeting.—A campmeeting will be held by the Milesburg M. E. Circuit, on the grounds of W. A. Thomas' estate, near Milesburg, commencing on the first day of September next, and to continue until the 9th. A cordial invitation is extended to all that may wish to attend from neighboring stations and circuits.

Right.—We understand that the Houserville Post Office has been restored with its former Post Master. Lemont the new office recently established, will remain for the accommodation of the people in that neighborhood. Success to Hon. Wm. H. Armstrong. Let the people of Houserville not forget their friends.

Business Cards.—Business men in want of business Cards, Letter heads, Bill-heads, Envelopes Posters &c., should have them done at the Republican office.

We have the latest style of type and guarentee our work to be equal to that of any other establishment. Our prices are reasonable.

Knights of Pythias.—The following named members were duly installed as officers for the ensuing term, July 11th, 1870:

V. P., W. S. Zellers; W. C., L. W. Miller; W. V. C., Amos Mullen; W. R. S., J. D. Miller; W. F. S., John Mease; W. B., W. K. Jenkins; N. G., F. S. Hillibish; W. I. S., Wm. Garret; W. O. S., Thos. Naylor.

Runaway.—On last Thursday evening, after the marriage ceremonies had taken place in the Methodist church, in Howard, and after the married couple had entered the carriage, the horse took fright, ran away, and smashed up the carriage, but, fortunately, the lady and gentleman were not injured. Quite an exciting and hazardous serenade for the new-made happy twain.

Musical Entertainment.—Mrs. M. S. Dunham, and her pupils, will give a musical entertainment in the court-house, in this place, on next Saturday evening, the 16th inst. From the well known ability of this lady to please the public, we may look for the court-house to be crowded on the occasion. Ten cents admission will be charged at the door, for the purpose of defraying expenses.

We are authorized to say that any person finding the pocket-book of Mr. George Durst, of Potter tp., lost on the 30th of May, somewhere between Bellefonte and Centre Hall, which contained $150 in greenbacks, and $2,000 in valuable papers, is entitled to $50 reward, as advertised in another column, which amount they may reserve if they will leave the pocket-book, and remaining contents at the post-office in this place.

Centre County Normal Institute.—The fifth annual session of this Institute will commence at Rebersburg, on Wednesday, the 27th inst. The object of this school is a worthy one, as it is intended to elevate the standard of teaching and prepare teachers for the everyday work of the school-room. The Excelsior and Eureka literary societies will meet once a week, and a course of lectures will be delivered during the session. The Institute is under the charge of Rev. W. J. Engle, Prof. H. Myer and R. M. Magee. Co. Sup't.

Runaway.—As our young friend J. J. Krom was returning home from a jaunt to the country in a sulkey, just opposite the cemetery, at the east end of Howard street, his horse, for some unaccountable reason, became unmanageable, and commenced kicking at a furious rate. Mr. Krom, evidently not liking the horse's heels in such disagreeable juxtaposition to his countenance, concluded to fall back in good order, but as he attempted to dismount, his foot sliped, and he fell violently to the ground. We are glad to say that he sustained no injury beyond a sprained wri t and a few slight scratches. The hors: ran down Howard st. to Allegheny, and up Allegheny to the public square, where he was arrested in his wild career.

Snow Shoe Items.—The enterprising citizens of Snow Shoe are about to erect a commodious school-house for the graded school.

The Sabbath-school, under the supervision of John Sommerville, is in a flourishing condition, and new scholars are being admitted weekly.

The Exchange Hotel, kept by Jerry Sankey, has become quite a popular resort for the traveling public. Mr. Sankey is the right man in the right place, having no superiors and few equals as a landlord.

The new Public Park has lately been completed, and embraces more natural scenery than any other park in existance.

An enterprising gentleman has recently established a distillery for the distillation of winter-green oil, three miles from this place.

John Uzzle has retired from the hotel business, and is now devoting his time to raising stock. He has some of the best bloods in the country on his farm. His amiable lady is proprietress of a first-class fancy store.

Patzy Garman is doing a good business in the manufacture of boots and shoes. He is a good workman, and is prompt to all his engagements.

Herbert Williams is doing a rushing business in the toy and confectionery line, in addition to which he has a first-class blacksmith shop, and, still better, Mr. Williams enjoys the reputation of being a first-class workman.

Hinton & Rankin are stocking the company mill, on Beech creek, with saw logs. Both are energetic men.

The Sunday-schools had a union picnic on the 4th inst, two miles from the depot. The Declaration of Independence was read by Jacob Esq., and Rev. Mr. Wright and John Sommervill, Esq., done the speaking. A large concourse of people were present, and the utmost harmony prevailed, all appearing to enjoy themselves hugely.

A company have commenced erecting a new saw-mill on the site of the "old burnt mill" property. They intend having it in operation by the 1st of September next.

The woods in this township is full of juniper berries, wortle berries and pigeons. Such a large crop was never before known.

Agricultural College—Harvest Reception.—This institution will be open for inspection from the 26th till the 29th of the present month, during which time plain fare and a hearty welcome will be given to its friends. Parents of present students, persons desirous of sending new students, all former students and gentlemen connected with the public press are especially invited.

Tuesday the 26th inst., will be mainly devoted to a general examination of the buildings, grounds and Farm, and the experimental farm; and in the evening a popular lecture upon Chemistry will be delivered by Prof. Brenneman, and illustrated by appropriate experiments.

On Wednesday, the 27th inst., the Trustees of the College will hold their quarterly meeting, at 10 a. m., and at 2 p. m. There will be a trial of Mowing Machines, with an exhibition of such improved farming implements as may be offered. In the evening degrees will be conferred upon members of the scientific course who shall have completed the prescribed course of study. A portion of the evening will be devoted, also, to the discussion of general topics of interest to friends of the college.

On Thursday, the 28th, at 10 a. m., there will be a trial of Reaping Machines; and in the evening a meeting of Alumni, and former students of the college are expected.

The following Reapers & Mowers have been entered for competition:

The World—By Daniel McBride and Michael Grove.
Hubbard—By James R. Alexander & J. H. Myers.
Excelsior—By Peter Hoffer.
Kirby—By Pennypacker & J. Rankin.
Dodge, New Yorker, New Yorker with Binder, and Binding Attachment—By McLanahan, Stone & Isett.
Keystone Harvester—By Centre Hall Manufacturing Co.

Friday is left open for such purposes as the occasion may suggest.

It is expected that the Governor of the State, who is, ex officio, a Trustee of the College, will honor it by his presence a part of the week.

The College building will be illuminated each evening.

Thos. H. Burrows,
July 9, 1870. Principal.

Prof. Isaacs.—This eminent Physician, of Philadelphia, as we stated in our last number, arrived in our town two weeks ago, and took rooms at the Brockerhoff House. He makes a specialty of Eye and Ear diseases and of Catarrh. His fame as a successful Eye and Ear Surgeon preceeded his coming and although it was his intention to remain but 10 days, he has been prevailed upon by some of our leading Physicians and numerous patients to continue his stay at the Brockerhoff House, until next Wednesday, the 20th inst. We paid a visit to the Professors room and so far as we are capable of judging, we think him master of his Profession. His instruments for operation on the Eye and Ear, as well as his Catarrh instruments are exceedingly fine.

He has made the above diseases a special study for 15 years and has in his possession testimonials from the most reliable sources. To our readers who may be suffering from any of the above diseases, we would say have no fears but call at once and see Dr. Isaacs, it may save you much suffering and an expensive trip to Philadelphia.

What is the Use?—What is the use, asks some one, of minding what "they say?" What's the use of lying awake of nights with the unkind remarks of some false friend running through your brain like forked lightning? What's the use of getting into a worry and fret over gossip that has been afloat to your disadvantage by some meddlesome busybody? These things can't possibly injure you, unless, indeed, you take notice to them, and, by combatting them, give them character and standing. If what is said be true, set yourself right at once. If it be false, let it go for what it will fetch, until it dies of inherent weakness. By taking this advice, and buying your hats at Montgomery's celebrated hat-store, you will do more toward securing complete happiness than by any other course you can pursue. The Messrs. Montgomerys' have the largest and finest stock of hats and furnishing goods of any establishment in town.

Zeller & Jarret.—This firm, at their new drug-store, on Bishop street, have just added another large supply of wall-paper; also a number of cases of Spear's celebrated pure wine for sacramental and medical purposes. It is warranted to be the pure juice of the Oporto grape

Pic-Nic.—Rev. Thos. McGovern, pastor of St. John's Catholic Church must have been a happy man on Monday, the 4th inst., as he formed in procession at the church, St. Patrick's Sons of Temperance at 10 o'clock, a. m., of said day. One by one they came until they were all in the church, and as they came out and fell into ranks, he must have felt proud of his work. To see those brawny sons of toil, dressed in full regalia—looking hale and hearty because they had imbibed none of the brandy bitters, the drugged whiskey, the damning poisons that ruins the stomachs, destroys the health and steals away the brains of so many not only of our working men, but of some who hold high positions both State and National. It was not our intention to moralize in this connection but we cannot refrain from repeating that Rev. Thos. McGovern has great reason to thank God and take courage, when he reflects upon the good he has done, the great work he accomplished with and for his people in the great temperance reform.

If our reformers our good people only knew, how much strength of resolution it required in a man to reform and remain faithful to his pledges, after he has once formed the appetite for drink, we think they would never cease their efforts—never refuse a kind word or to lend a helping hand to the poor unfortunate victim. They need all the helps the church can throw around them—they need more. They need the grace of God in their hearts. If they fall they need pity and sympathy, not censure and abuse. How many poor unfortunates could be saved, if our churches would but make the effort.

After forming in front of the church, as we have stated, the procession under the Marshalship of Jerry O'Leary, marched through all the principle streets. The stars and stripes floating proudly in the breeze along side of the bony green flag of Erin—sweet Erin, and the Bellefonte Brass Band discoursing patriotic music. We were really glad that Father McGovern had acted upon our suggestion of a few months ago—and placed the flag of our native and their adopted country in the procession, in the front rank.

As they passed our office we counted some seventy-five in the procession. They were well dressed, looked well and behaved well. We could not resist the temptation of remarking as they passed, that there was no evidence of "hard times" or starvation in that society.

After parading the principle streets they marched to the Pine Grove, near the Friends Cemetery, where every preparation had been made for the enjoyment of the St. P. S. T., as well as for the members of all denominations and citizens, who had been cordially invited to attend.

A large platform had been erected for the enjoyment of the young folks, who might wish to show their patriotism, by triping "the light fantastic toe," to the excellent music of Mr. Frederick Smith and Mr. Kline, two of the best violinists in the country. They did enjoy themselves; for they danced all day, and were loath to leave as they were admonished that the "wee sma hours of the night" were approaching.

The table, filled with the choicest and best, was a complete success and many of our citizens proved on that occasion that they were not only a success, but not troubled with dispepsia. The table committee was composed of Missses M. A. Cartin, Mary Cunningham, Kate Dolan and Mrs. John Bradley. Young men who like good cooking might do well to pay a little attention—to keep a "sheeps eye" on these three young misses. They will certainly make good wives.

The Ice Cream table under the management of Misses Farley and Bland was also a success, the profits netting the Society the handsome sum of $200.

Mr. Edward Brown, one of our most enterprising citizens was there in all his glory with his "ice cold lemonade" and "faith he did a smashing business" as all the proceeds were donated by him to the society.

Much of the credit, for the good order, the perfect arrangement, the triumphant success of the whole affair is due to our young friend Matthias Dooley, chief clerk in Messrs. Hoffer & Bro., store.

The following "Card" has been handed us for publication by the Secretary.

"A CARD."

The St. Patrick's Sons of Temperance, take this occasion to return in general terms, their sincere thanks to the citizens of Bellefonte, for their generous expression of good will extended to them in their efforts on the 4th of July, to unite two important elements of national greatness—Temperance and Patriotism. The overflowing of our gratitude will, we hope, plead an apology if we should offend by mentioning the practical sympathy manifested in the cause by Mrs. Dr. Hale, Mrs. Dr. Hibler, Mrs. Gen. Beaver, Mrs. Jas. Sommerville, Mrs. Roland Curtin, Mrs. Austin Brew, Mrs. A. O. Furst, Mrs. Jas. McCafferty and Mrs. Milligan. The members of the Bellefonte Brass Band, also share our gratitude for cheering our hearts with soul stirring music. The impropriety, however, of discoursing the "Little Brown Jug," for a temperance parade was not sarcasm, as some uncharitably supposed, but a proof that the sudden conversion of the minstrels did not afford sufficient time to wean them from their idol.

By order of Committee,
J. Matt Dooley, Secretary.

Serious Accident.—A very serious accident occurred on Sunday morning last, to a Mrs. Wilkey, and her two children, from Reedsville, Mifflin county, whilst on their way to Potter's Bank, on a visit. When near the top of Long Mountain, they met a man in a sulkey, who, being in a beastly state of intoxication, ran recklessly against their horse, frightening him, and causing him to back over a perpendicular bank of twenty feet, killing him instantly. One of the little girls miraculously escaped injury, but the other, being thrown some distance down the mountain, was seriously, and, it is feared, fatally injured. Mrs. Wilkey escaped uninjured.

Mr. Editor:—On being handed a programme of the annual commencement of the Bellefonte high-school, with an invitation appended, requesting our attendance, we repaired to the high-school room, on Friday afternoon, the 1st inst., at 2 o'clock, for the purpose of witnessing the ceremony. We arrived in good time, and secured comfortable seats, and then witnessed the influx of scores of persons, all eager to listen and see. A few of the young gentlemen, serving as ushers, assisted greatly in preventing the confusion incident upon such occasions.

A tap of the call-bell called the audience to order, when the exercises were opened by Prof. Hastings reading a select prayer from "Worship in the School Room."

The literary exercises, in our estimation, were incomplete, inasmuch as not one lady or girl made their appearance upon the rostrum for the purpose of favoring us with a display of their talents. The exercises were confined to a select few of the young men and boys attending, and were not a correct exposition of the qualities of the school. The literary performances were interspersed with music, both vocal and instrumental, rendered with good effect, fully attesting the fact that talent and taste for music are preponderating elements in the school. We were especially smitten with the songs "Allie Ray" and "Oh, let me kiss the baby."

Chas. L. Ward delivered the valedictory, it being the only original oration announced on the programme, and, what surprised us more, the only one delivered. We give the young man credit for a good production, if it was really what was claimed for it—original.

Is it the Academy here that lessens the importance of this high-school, or what other influence is brought to bear upon it to render it unfit the name it bears? Let us tell you, my dear friends, that—using the term comprehensively—there is not a high-school in this town. It is not what Wickersham and other educators say high-schools should be.— It is improperly graded; and, besides this, and other imperfections, it is poorly supported by the citizens of the place. The children of aristocratic parents are, in their biassed opinion, too good to mingle with a class attending this school, and must attend the Academy here, or be sent to "boarding-school—a high-sounding term to some shallow-minded mortals—thus depriving our common-schools of the material rightfully belonging to them to build up a reputation for the cause that would be world-wide and ever-enduring.

In consequence of this constant drain upon the free-school material by opulence, there is no opportunity for the introduction of such studies as will enable the school to honorably unfurl its banner with its true title engraved thereon.

Citizens, let me impress upon your minds the duty of rendering your aid and assistance to the great moral work of universal free and common education so that it can no longer be said that Bellefonte has a high-school in name and not in sense.

Believe me to be a true friend, and earnest laborer, in common education, and I will remain your humble servant.

From Central City.—A grand picnic was held by the Central City public schools, on Saturday, the 9th inst.

The high school was under the care of Prof. F. W. Campbell, and the juvenile school under the supervision of Miss. Clara Irvin.

The procession being formed, was headed by Miss. Addie Tonner, Lillie Adams, Lida Irvin and Bell Campbell, who bore aloft the "dear old flag"—the symbol of our greatness and power, the emblem of freedom to all mankind, guarded by four gentlemen.

Following these were the small female scholars; next, the small males; and next in order, the large males and females belonging to the school, and the citizens present, forming a procession of over three hundred persons.

The procession, lead by the Central City drum corps, assisted by J. W. Parson and Scott Lose, musicians of Bellefonte, took up its line of march, under command of Captain Martin Dolan and Philip High, as Marshalls, for the beautiful grove, known as "the old celebration ground."

As the procession moved to the soul-stirring strains of patriotic music, such as made the rebels quake in other days, the observer was convinced that the educational interests of Central City are equal to any, and inferior to none in the county.

On arriving at the grove, various amusements were participated in by one and all. All of a sudden, however, an alarm was raised, and, for the time being, quite an excitement prevailed; but, when understood, and to the great pleasure and satisfaction of all present, it turned out to be only an announcement that dinner was ready. On every part of the grove were spread on Nature's green sward the rich and tempting viands, roasts of every description, and cakes in endless variety.

Around that festal board were to be seen the old, gray-headed sire, and the merry and listless school-children, all commemorating the closing term of the Central City schools, just as happy as happy could be.

Too much cannot be said in commendation of Prof. Campbell. He is, in fact a model teacher. Miss. Irvin, although young in the profession, is efficient, and is destined to become one of the first female teachers in the county.

In making the preparatory arrangements, the citizens all had a mind to the work, for which Prof. Campbell and Miss. Irvin, through your correspondent, tender their unfeigned thanks to each and to all.

Taking all in all, the pic-nic was a glorious success—an honor to the teachers, the schelars, and all the citizens who participated. Index.

DEDICATION OF A NEW CHURCH, AND MEETING OF A NEW SYNOD.

The new and elegant Presbyterian church in Bellefonte, Pa., has been completed, and was dedicated to the worship of God on the morning of Tuesday, June 28. The Rev. Mr. Barnard, of Wisconsin; the Rev. Mr. Yeomans, of Orange, N. J., former pastors of the church, and the Rev. Dr. W. J. Gibson, took part in the devotional services.— The Rev. Dr. T. H. Robinson, of Harrisburg, preached the sermon, and the Rev. W. T. Wylie made the prayer of dedication. General James A. Beaver, Chairman of the Building Committee, announced that the church was complete, and paid for, and formally placed it in the bands of the Board of Trustees. The building is of stone, and of the style known as the "Romanesque." The main body of the church is 85 by 98 feet, with two towers in front, one projecting fourteen feet, the other eleven. The walls are of stone, faced as rubble work, with trimmings or brown stone. The front is unusually handsome, well broken up, and presents a picturesque and imposing appearance. On one corner is the main tower, surmounted by a perfectly proportioned steeple rising 154 feet above the pavement; the tower upon the opposite corner rises 80 feet above the pavement. There are four large doorways in front, leading into the vestibule; and the magnificent centre window, of beautiful design and finish, completes the many attractions upon the outer side. The main body of the church inside is 78 by 58 feet in the clear, and is capable of comfortably seating six hundred persons. The seats are finished in the finest manner, with neatly carved scroll ends, and are upholstered.

In the rear of the building is a minister's room, an elegantly designed pulpit and spacious platform for choir. The windows are large, of the finest style of stained glass, and are admirably adapted for ventilation. The ceiling is grand, being arched and decorated in the highest style of frescoing. The magnificent Scotch marble tablet, secured at an expense of $500, and neatly framed into the wall in the rear of the church upon the right, forms a novel and highly artistic feature. It is one of the best designed and artistically finished tablets to be found in the United States, and was purchased by the members of the Bellefonte Presbyterian church, to be placed in the new church in memory of the late Rev. Dr. James Linn, for fifty-two years pastor of the church, and for seven years senior pastor. It bears upon its face, in carved letters, the following inscription:

REV. JAMES LINN, D. D.,
LVIII YEARS
PASTOR OF THIS CHURCH.
Born September iv, mdccixxxiii,
Died Febuary xxiii, mdccclxviii.
Faithful, Wise, Meek, Patient,
Pure, Devout.

The cost of the building, including carpets, bell, cushions, furniture, and every thing connected therewith, was, in round numbers, $40,000, $10,000 of which was secured within the six days immediately preceding its dedication.

INSTALLATION.

In the afternoon was held the installation services, installing the Rev. W. T. Wylie, pastor. The Rev. Dr. Hamill presided; the Rev. Dr. MacLean, of Lewistown, delivered the charge to the pastor, and the, Rev. Mr. Barron, of Hollidaysburg, the charge to the people.

MEETING OF A NEW SYNOD.

The Synod of Harrisburg met in the new church of Bellefonte, on the evening of June 28th. The Rev. Dr. Thomas Creigh, of Mercersburg, Pa., delivered the opening discourse, after which, as Moderator, he called the Synod to order. Upon the completion of the roll, Dr. Creigh was chosen Moderator; the Rev. Wm. Simonton, of Williamsport, was elected Temporary Clerk; the Rev. Dr. T. H. Robinson, of Harrisburg, Stated Clerk; the Rev. R. M. Wallace, of Altoona, Permanent Clerk, and John A. Wier, of Harrisburg, Treasurer.

The Synod proceeded to the business for which it was convened, and organized four Presbyteries, to wit:

1. The Presbytery of Carlisle shall consist of the ministers and churches within the territorial limits of the counties of Dauphin, Perry, Cumberland, Adams, Franklin, and Fulton, to meet immediately on the adjournment of this Synod, in the Presbyterian church of Bellefonte, at which meeting the Rev. C. P. Wing shall preside, until a new Moderator shall be chosen; and said Presbytery of Carlisle is hereby designated to be the legal successor of the late Presbyteries of Carlisle and Harrisburg, and as such is entitled to the possession and enjoyment of all the rights and privileges, and liable to the performance of the duties of those Presbyteries.

2. The Presbytery of Huntingdon shall consist of the ministers and churches within the territorial limits of the counties of Bedford, Blair, Clearfield, Centre, Mifflin, Juniata, and Huntingdon; to meet immediately on the adjournment of this Synod, in the Presbyterian church of Bellefonte, at which meeting the Rev. R. M. Wallace shall preside, until a new Moderator shall be chosen; and said Presbytery of Huntingdon is hereby declared to be the legal successor of the late Presbytery of Huntingdon, &c,

3. The Presbytery of Northumberland shall consist of all the ministers and churches within the territorial limits of the counties of Clinton, Lycoming, Columbia, Montour, Northumberland, Snyder, Union, and Cameron; to meet immediately on the adjournment of this Synod, in the Presbyterian church of Bellefonte, at which meeting the Rev. Dr. Watson shall preside, until a new Moderator shall be chosen; and said Presbytery of Northumberland is hereby declared to be the legal successor of the late Presbytery of Northumberland, &c.

4. The Presbytery of Wellsboro' shall consist of all the ministers and churches within the territorial limits of the counties of Tioga, Potter, and McKean, to meet on the third Thursday in July, at two o'clock P. M., in the Presbyterian church of Wellsboro,' at which meeting the Rev. J. F. Calkins shall preside until a new Moderator shall be elected: and said Presbytery of Wellboro' is hereby declared the legal successor of the late Presbytery of Wellsboro', &c.

The next stated meeting of the Synod will beheld in the Pine Street church, Harrisburg, on the first day of October, at 7 o'clock P. M.

The Presbyteries which were directed to meet immediately were organized, and elected officers as follows:

Carlisle.—Moderator, Rev. D. Wing; Stated Clerk, Rev. A. D. Mitchell; Temporary Clerk, Rev. J. A. Crawford; Treasurer, Rev. J. Smith Gordon.

Northumberland.—Moderator, Rev. Wm. Sterling; Stated Clerk and Treasurer, Rev. W. Simonton; Temporary Clerk, Rev. A. D. Hahn.

Huntingdon.—Moderator, Rev. R. M. Wallace; Stated Clerk, Rev. R. Hamill.

Why Don't You?—There were Pic-Nics and 4th of July celebrations in various parts of the county, but as yet we have received no report. In our opinion a school teacher who attends a picnic and is too lazy to report to his county paper does not deserve, ever to have his name inserted in the Educational department of the paper.

The Pic-Nic in Oak Grove, near the excellent Hotel of R. H. Porter, at the Old Fort, was, we understand a complete affair and the young folks enjoyed themselves prodigiously. Mr. Porter everybody says, made himself particularly agreeable, and kept his bar closed all day.

Celebration.—On Saturday, the 2nd ult., a combination celebration was held at Curtin's Works, composed of the Sunday-school and the Good Templar's Lodge of the above named place. While a pleasant repast was being enjoyed, there arrived a large delegation from the Circle Valley Lodge, of Boggs tp.— The old drum corps of the 148th P. V. furnished the music. The affair went of pleasantly, and gave general satisfaction. An able address was delivered by the Rev. J. W. Clever, of the Milesburg Circuit, and also an address by the Rev. J. M. Young, Evangelical, also of Milesburg.

Trout fishing is not lawful now, the time specified for catching this species of fish having expired on the 1st inst.

MARRIED.

On the 30th ult., in Snowshoe, by Rev. H. P. Cutter, Mr. Fred Morris, of New York City, and Miss Elizabeth Wolfe, of Snowshoe.

On the same, by, Rev. J. Benson Akers, Mr. John Frantz, and Miss Malinda E. Rorabaugh, both of Port Matilda.

On the same, at Milesburg, by Rev. J. W. Cleaver, Mr. George Thomas, and Miss Catharine Isenbery, both of Milesburg.

On the 3d inst., by the same, Mr. Wm. E. Flick, of Julian Furnace, and Miss Mary A. Mitchell, of Milesburg.

On the 7th inst., at Howard, by Rev. Bukley, Mr. Lanlan, and Miss Mantz, both of Howard.

On the 7th inst., at the residence of W. W. Wetzler, near Milesburg, by Rev. James Mullen, George L. Peters, Esq., of Unionville, and Miss Catharine Glenn, of this Borough.

DIED.

[From the Churchman.]

OBITURY.

"Blessed are the dead who die in the Lord: even so saith the spirit: for they rest from their labors."

These words of gospel hope and consolation are seldom more appropriately used than they were at the interment of the subject of this notice, Mrs Adaline Harris, who died at Bellefonte, Penna., May 2d, 1870, aged 57 years.

The death of this excellent Christian woman is a most severe stroke to a large circle of relations & friends. Her warm heart and tender and sympathising spirit so endeared her to them that her loss is felt to be almost irreparable. Few go to their graves unmourned by kindred or by those whom love and kindness have attached; but it is seldom that the heart of a community responds as in this instance, and ocars such general and affectionate testimony to the worth of the departed. But it is rather the Christian character of the deceased and her relations to the Church that should be here noticed; and it may be truly said, that in the household of the Church her loss is scarcely less grievously felt than in her own immediate family. Having been brought into the Church during the ministry of its first rector, the Rev. Geo. Nate, she was at the time of her death one of its oldest members. Her attachment to her Church was most devoted. She had no dearer interest in life than to promote its welfare, and this she did effectually, not only by her Christian example, but by the active and self-sacrificing efforts in its behalf. To the last day of her life upon earth, her thoughts were still engaged for the prosperity of Zion. Her death was a most beautiful and encouraging testimony for the Christian faith. A large company of sorrowing friends stood around her bed, as the hour of her departure drew near; and it is not too much to say that the memory of that hour will never be effaced from their memory, but will be cherished as a valued legacy and a precious blessing from God. The dying saint reposed in perfect peace upon her Saviour, confessing her own unworthiness. Her trust was all in the saving work of her Lord. And thus her spirit passed away from earth and entered into rest. We who deplore our loss in her removal, yet thank God for her brighter ample in life, and the precious testimony of her death."

COMPLETION OF THE PACIFIC RAILROAD.

GREAT RUSH TO STERNBERGS.

Sung to the tune of Yankee Doodle.

The Great Pacific Railroad's laid,
From ocean unto ocean,
And now complete connections made,
An enterprising notion.

The mighty work at last is done,
So speedy and brisk, oh!
And now in ten days we can run
From here to San Francisco.

No more we take the ancient route,
The stage, a horrid slow thing;
It banged the passengers about
And wore out all their clothing.

Chorus, for the end of each verse:

The Great Pacific Railroad laid,
From ocean unto ocean,
And we buy clothes from A. Sternberg,
A most delightful notion.

Through passengers by the Pacific Railroad will call at the store of A. Sternberg, before starting, and provide themselves with a complete outfit of Spring and Summer clothing, the very best assortment of which will always be found at A. Sternberg's Store.

People who travel by other routes, and also people who, instead of travelling by any route at all, prefer to stay at home, can find the most superior and seasonable garments, for every occasion, of every variety, and at the lowest price.

Do not fail to call and examine our stock before purchasing elsewhere; if you do not, we are sure you will be sorry that you did not. Our goods are put down to the lowest figure. We sell whole suits, according to quality.

WARNER'S

PILE REMEDY

WARNER'S PILE REMEDY has never failed (not even in one case) to cure the very worst cases of Blind Itching or Bleeding Piles. Those who are afflicted should immediately call on their druggist and get Warner's Pile Remedy. It is expressly for the Piles, and is not recommended to cure any other disease. It has cured many cases of over thirty years standing. Price One Dollar. For sale by druggists everywhere.

DYSPEPSIA.

WARNER'S DYSPEPSIA TONIC is prepared expressly for Dyspeptics and those suffering with habitual Costiveness. It is slightly stimulating tonic and a splendid apetizer; it strengthens the stomach and restores the digestive organs to their healthy state. Weak, nervous and dyspeptic persons should use Warner's Dyspepsia Tonic. For sale by Druggists. Price $1,00.

COUGH NO MORE.

WARNER'S COUGH BALSAM is healing, softening and expectorating. The extraordinary power it possesses in immediately relieving, and eventually curing, the most obstinate causes of Coughs, Colds, Sore Throat, Bronchitis, Influenza, Catarrh, Hoarseness, Asthma and Consumption is almost incredible. So prompt is the relief and certain its effects in all the above cases, our physicians are daily prescribing it, and one and all say that it is the most healing and expectorating medicine known. One dose always affords relief, and in most cases one bottle effects a cure. Sold by druggists, in large bottles. Price One Dollar. It is your own fault if you still cough and suffer. The Balsam will cure.

WINE OF LIFE.

The great Blood Purifier and Delicious Drink, Warner's Vinum Vitæ, or Wine of Life, is free from poisonous drugs or impurities, being prepared for those who require a stimulant. It is a splendid appetizer and tonic, and the finest thing in the world for purifying the blood. It is the most pleasant and delicious article ever offered to the public, far superior to brandy, whiskey, wine, bitters, or any other article. It is more healthy, and cheaper. Both male and female, young or old, can take the Wine of Life. It is, in fact, a life preserver. Those who wish to enjoy good health, and a free flow of lively spirits, will do well to take the Wine of Life. It is different from any thing ever before in use. It is sold by druggists; also at all respectable saloons. Price, One Dollar, in quart bottles.

Hair Vigor,

For restoring Grey Hair to its natural Vitality & Color.

A dress which is at once agreeable, healthy, and effectual for preserving the hair, Fresh or gray hair is restored to its original color, with the gloss and freshness of youth. Thin hair is thickened, falling hair checked, and baldness often, though not always cured by its use. Nothing can restore the hair where the follicles are destroyed, or the glands atrophied and decayed. But such as remain can be saved for usefulness by this application. Instead of fouling the hair with a pasty sediment, it will keep it clean and vigorous. Its occasional use will prevent the hair from turning gray or falling off, and consequently prevent baldness. Free from those deleterious substances which make some preparation dangerous and injurious to the hair, the Vigor can only benefit but not harm it. If wanted merely for a nothing else can be found so desirable. Containing neither oil nor dye, it does not soil white cambric, and yet lasts long on the hair, giving it a rich glossy lustre and a grateful perfume.

NEW DRUG STORE.

IN BROCKERHOFF'S NEW BLOCK

BISHOP ST., BELLEFONTE, PA.

The undersigned take pleasure in announcing to the citizens of Bellefonte—Centre, Clinton and Clearfield counties in general, that they have just opened their New Drug Store for the accommodation of the public, and they hereby extend a cordial invitation to all who may be in need and wish to obtain Fresh, PURE AND GENUINE MEDICINES, CHEMICALS, DRUGS & all such articles as are kept in a FIRST CLASS DRUG STORE, lately selected with great care in the cities of N. York and Philadelphia, by the Senior partner of the establishment, who has had over 30 yrs experience in the art. The German Language spoken, read and written here, as well as the English Tongue, hence Physician's prescriptions will be accurately and carefully compounded, in either Language, and at all hours during the day or night. We modestly and kindly ask for a liberal share of public favor and patronage. We make no attempt to enumerate the articles kept in our establishment, since such enumeration would take up the greatest space of a newspaper. We would merely say here that our SELECTION & ASSORTMENT is well nigh complete. Come and judge for yourselves. Besides the regular DRUGS, MEDICINES & CHEMICALS, we have a fine lot of FANCY GOODS, such as EXTRACTS AND PERFUMES For Ladies; POCKET CUTLERY, BIRD CAGES, HANGING BASKETS, SODA FOUNTAIN WITH CREAM NECTAR, A LARGE and well selected lot of WALL PAPER and cheap at that, viz:—From Ten cents to $2.50 per Roll. GIVE US A CALL

ROSADALIS.

THE GREAT AMERICAN health RESTORER, purifies the blood and cures Scrofula, Syphilis, Skin diseases, Rheumatism, and all Chronic Affections of the blood, Liver and Kidneys. Recommended by the Medical Faculty and many thousands of our best citizens. Read the testimony of Physicians and patients who have used Rosadalis; send for our Rosadalis Guide to Health Book, or Almanac for this year, which we pulish for gratuitous distribution; it will give you much valuable information.

Dr. R. W. Carr, of Baltimore, says:

I take pleasure in recommending your Rosadalis as a very powerful alterative. I have seen it used in two cases with happy results—one in a case of secondary syphilis, in which the patient pronounced himself cured after having taken five bottles of your medicine. The other is a case of scrofula of long standing, which is rapidly improving under its use, and the indications are that the patient will soon recover. I have carefully examined the formula by which your Rosadalis is made, and find it an excellent compound of alterative ingredients.

Dr. Sparks, of Nicholasville, Ky., says he has used Rosadalis in cases of Scrofula and Secondary Syphilis with satisfactory results—as a cleaner of the Blood I know no better remedy.

Samuel G. McFadden, Murfreesborough, Tenn., says:

I have used seven bottles of Rosadalis, and am entirely cured of Rheumatism; send me four bottles, as I wish it for my brother, who has scrofulous sore eyes.

Benjamin Bechtol, of Lima, Ohio, writes, I have suffered for twenty years with an inveterate eruption over my whole body; a short time since I purchased a bottle of Rosadalis and it effected a perfect cure.

Rosadalis is sold by F. P. GREEN, and Druggists generally.

DIFFERENT MINDS.

Some murmer when the sky is clear
And wholly bright to view,
If one small speck of dark appear
In their great heaven of blue;
And some with thankful love are filled,
If but one streak of light,
One ray of God's good mercy gild
The darkness of their night.

In palaces are hearts that ask,
In discontent and pride,
Why life is such a dreary task,
And all good things denied;
And hearts, in poorest huts, admire,
How love has, in their aid,
(Love that not ever seems to tire,)
Such rich provision made.

Home Against Foreign Labor.

From the Pittsburg Review and Price Current.

Discussing England's American policy in our last issue, we adverted to the fact that notwithstanding the various schemes set on foot by British manufacturers and merchats to retard the growth of American Industries, and the development of our manifold resources, American skill succeeded in manufacturing a thousand articles cheaper and better in every respect than any produced in England. To show that the assertion was not an idle one, we deem it proper in this connection to demonstrate the difference between home and foreign skilled labor and to show wherein the former is superior to the last mentioned.

We will take for granted that those manufacturing interests which serve in a pre-eminent manner to mark the degree of excellence and ingenuity attained in skilled labor, namely the working of iron and steel into various products, may be accepted as a fair criterion.

Twenty-five years ago seven eighths of all the articles made from steel sold in the United States were imported direct. The remaining fraction represented the place occupied by articles of American steel. These terms have changed places. To-day seven-eights of all the articles made from steel sold in the United States are home made, the imported articles being one eighth. The books of any hardware establishment in the country will bear us out in this assertion. The uniformed reader will naturally desire to learn the cause or causes operating to bring about this result. It is not enough to say that our manufacturers and mechanics possess more ingenuity, more resources more energy or more perseverence than those of other countries. The impartial reader will demand proof, and this we propose to furnish in the shape of universally accepted facts.

During the greater portion of a century England supplied the American market with locks, and wood screws with which to fasten them to their places. Now, a wood screw seems a trifle in itself, but in the eyes of English machanics it required extraordinary ingenuity to construct the requisite machinery essential to the rapid production of even so small a matter as a wood screw, while the manufacturer's investments absorbed a vast amount of capital. Both mechanic and owner contemplated the net result with a degree of complacency approaching pride. Not so with the American consumer. The first cost and carriage made the trifle expensive to us, When the American conceived the idea of practising economy, and building up a new industry, pivoted upon the wood screw a brief investigation convinced him that the English product was a mere make-shift, falling far short of the requirements. The English wood screw was of uniform thickness throughout, cut off blunt at the end. The workman was compelled to use a gimlet or "brad" to prepare the way for it.—American ingenuity rejected both. It concluded to make an article that would obviate the necessity of either. It said, we will taper this screw and give it a point. No sooner said than done. An establishment was reared as if by magic, filled with machinery adapted to the specialty, and from that day to this the English manufacturers have been deprived of their "American market." American wood screws displaced their make-shifts.

For upwards of a century England enjoyed a monoply in the manufacture of malleable cast iron. American ingenuity, in a leisure hour, investigated the merits of the peculiar product, perceived at a glance the uses to which it was adapted, and straightway proceeded to determine the matter by a practical test. A Pittsburg manufacturer, Mr. Calvin Adams, placed a malleable lock in the market, and English locks ever afterwards kept company with English wood screws. This was merely the entering wedge of a trade that has stopped the importa tion of an hundred articles.

For upwards of a century American horses were curried with English curry combs. The carriage added to the first cost made up an item that served in a manner to account for the shaggy hides of our horses. American ingenuity found time to examine the English curry comb, flung it aside in disgust, and replaced it immediately with an article adapted to the purpose required.

The English ax was an eye sore to the American mechanic. The moment a uniform article of tool steel was supplied him, the clumsy English ax was thrown aside, to be replaced by a pattern that enabled a workman to accomplish nearly double the amount of work with less labor. So through the entire range of carpenter's, cooper's and cabinet maker's tools. Awkward English tools were displaced by American tools combining lightness with strength. The same skill that balanced an ax modeled a razor blade and wedge. Even in the matter of making a shovel England failed to please. Her shovels were heavy, with the material disproportioned, one part wearing the other out. Failing in this, it is not to be wondered at if every agricultural implement produced by the same mechanics fell short of the requirement.

American ingenuity has taught England how to sow her seed; to mow, reap and bind; to make a printing press, sewing machine, hay-rake, hoe, steam fire engine and steamboat. In short, there is scarcely any employment requiring skilled labor in which we have not accomplished more in ten years than England did in a century. English founders ridiculed the idea of making chilled rolls, and English iron masters laughed immoderatly over the published accounts of cold rolling.

All this in the past.

How stands the account to-day?—Let the following, taken from a lugubrious list submitted by British manufacturers to a Commission of Inquiry, appointed by the British Parliament, answer:

Wood-handled spade and shovels.—United States export them to all our colonies.

Hoes. United States compete with us for their own use and to some extent for export.

Axes for felling trees. United States supply our colonies and the world with the best articles.

Carpenters' broad axes, carpenters' and coopers' adzes, coopers' tools, various sorts; shoemakers' hammers and tools. Germany and the United States.

Nails, cut. United States export to South America and our colonies.

Horsenails. Beautifully made by machinery in the United States.

Pumps of various sorts. Largely exported by the United States. [Note. An American pump finding water for the Abyssinian expedition.]

Agricultural implements. Plows, cotton gins, cultivators, kibbling-machines, corn-crushers, churns, ricehullers, mowing machines, hay-rakes. Many articles similar to these are exported by the United States to common markets.

Gas-fitting, weighing-machines, plumbers' brass foundery, table glassware, door-locks machines for domestic purposes, as sausage-machines, coffeemills and washing-machines, nuts and bolts, penknives and scissors, stamped brassware,(certain kinds;) American "notions," as buckets, clothes pegs washing and agricultural machines.—United States.

Sewing machines. United States.

Lamps, for use with petroleum, now an article of very large consumption—The United States petroleum lamps supplant the English in India and China.

Door locks, chest locks, draw locks, cupboard locks in great variety.—United States, France and Germany.

Door latches in great variety.—United States export to Canada.

Curry combs. United States and France.

Caps, rat, beaver and fox. United States export to Canada.

Gimlets and augers, twisted.—United States export to Canada and probably elsewhere.

Breech-loading muskets and revolver pistols. United States.

When To Prune Grapes.

We find the following in an exchange credited to A. Kelley, Kelley's Island, O:

At first I supposed that it was improper to trim in the spring, when they bleed the worst, the Germans, whom I mostly employed, having a prejudice against it. But sometimes some parts of the vineyard were trimmed at this supposed improper time.

"The closest observation I was able to make discovered no bad result, and I have never seen that it made any difference when the vines were trimmed, from the time the leaves were ripe in the fall, to as late as the twentieth of June. I seldom get all my vines trimmed before the first of June.

"Since we have had the rot, I have in some vineyards tried leaving the three canes the full length until August when if no rot appeared, I cut off the surplus wood; but if the rot sets in, I have left the whole vine, and got a larger yield than from vines short pruned. But where there was little or no rot, the shortest pruned vines have uniformly borne the best crops. I am clearly of the opinion that the best time to trim is whenever it is most convenient after the leaf is dead in the fall to the first of June.

"I have always, root-pruned pretty severly plowing deeply close severly up to the vine, and cutting the roots in the first hoeing in the spring in most of my vineyards; but I have also tried the reverse, and must confess I have not been able to see much, if any difference in the results. There are now some seven to eight hundred acres here in bearing. Some persons think that spring trimming is best, but do not claim that they have any facts to prove it. It is true that some parts of vineyards have been trimmed in the fall, and did not bear as well as the part trimmed in the spring, but the reverse is also sometimes true. It is quite common to have one part of a vineyard do better than another one year, and the case reversed another year."

POTATOES FOR CALVES.—A correspondent of the Ohio Earmer of May 28 says:

"We have now been feeding our calves with that esculent root for several weeks with very good results. We do not try to make them a substitute for milk, but an addition to it,—The potatoes are cooked with those which we use in our family, cooking in the morning what we feed at evening, and at noon what we require in the morning. This keeps them sweet and fresh. They are mashed and put into their milk. The calves eat them readily and thrive remarkable upon them. They do not cause them to scour as meal often does, and we think they tend to beep the appetite even or regular at least, so far, we have found them ready for their morning and evening meal, without any of that daintiness which often characterizes calves fed skimmed and sour milk from the pail."

QUINCE GROWING.—An Ohio quince grower has been very successful for two years past with this fruit. His treatment of the tree is very simple. He spades the ground of his orchard every spring, and scatters a peck of coal ashes around each tree, after the soil has been spaded, and another when the quinces are about half grown.—Last year he sold three hundred bushels of quinces from his orchard of three fourths of an acre.

CURRANT AND GOOSBERRY WORMS.—A correspondent of the Oneida Dispatch says;

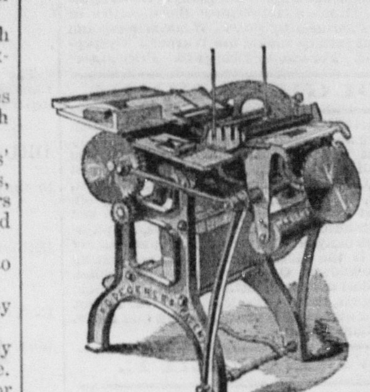

"To destroy the currant worms, go out at eight or nine o'clock in the evening and jar the bushes so as to throw the worms on the ground. Do this three successive evenings, when the worms make their apperance. This will finish them for the present year, and if everybody will do it for three successive years it will destroy the race."

FANCY DRINK,

FOR FEMALE COMPLAINTS, whether in young or old, married or single, at the dawn of womanhood or the turn of life, these Tonic Bitters have no equal. ☞ Send for a circular.

Made of Poor Rum, Whiskey Proof Spirits, and Refuse Liquors, declared spiced and sweetened to please the taste, called "Tonics," "Appetizers," "Restorers," &c., that lead the tippler on to drunkenness and ruin, but are a true medicine, made from the native Roots and Herbs of California free from all Alcoholic Stimulants. They are the Great Blood Purifier and Life Giving Principle, a perfect Renovator and Invigorator of the System, carrying off all poisonous matter, and restoring the blood to a healthy condition. No person can take these Bitters according to directions, and remain long unwell.

$100 will be given for an incurable case provided the bones are not destroyed by mineral poisons or other means, and the vital organs wasted beyond the point of repair.

For Inflammatory and Chronic Rheumatism, and Gout, Dyspepsia, or Indigestion, Bilious, Remittent, and Intermittent Fevers, Diseases of the Blood, Liver, Kidneys, and Bladder, these Bitters have been most successful. Such Diseases are caused by Vitiated Blood, which is generally produced by derangement of the Digestive Organs.

Clause the Vitiated Blood whenever you find its impurities bursting through the skin in Pimples, Eruptions or Sores; cleanse it when you find it obstructed and sluggish in the veins: cleanse it when it is foul, and your feelings will tell you when. Keep the blood pure and the health of the system will follow.

PIN, TAPE, and other WORMS, lurking in the system of so many thousands, are effectually destroyed and removed.

In Billious, Remittent, and Intermittent Fevers, these Bitters have no equal. For full directions read carefully the circular around each bottle, printed in four languages—English, German, French, and Spanish.

MILESBURG PLANING MILL.

M. H. MACKEY,

having leased the above named Planing-mill, and added largely to its facilities for turning out first-class work, we are prepared to furnish

FLOORING, DOORS, BLINDS,

SASH, SHUTTERS, BRACKETS,

SCROLL WORK,

and manufactured lumber of every description, at the

LOWEST CASH PRICES.

All manner of work, such as Scroll-sawing Moulding, Brackets, &c., made after any desired pattern,

ON THE SHORTEST NOTICE.

This company is composed of practicable mechanics, and Samuel Adams, one of the Co., has been foreman of the Bellefonte Planing Mill since its commencement.

Connected with the Mill, and in operation at all times, is one of the latest improved

COKE-DRYING KILNS,

which leaves the lumber in a perfectly healthy state, assists in preserving it, and in fact, adds to its lasting qualities, while other methods of drying deteriorate, and render it more liable

TO DECAY AND WASTE.

Lumber dried in a coke-kiln, is dried perfectly, and when worked and put up, will not

SHRIVEL AND SHRINK,

thus giving buildings the appearance of having been erected out of Green Material

We know that our facilities give us every advantage over other

PLANING MILLS IN THIS SECTION, and we feel perfectly free in saying that our work will be guaranteed to be of

A SUPERIOR QUALITY.

We will furnish anything in our line from a door panel, to a

WHOLE HOUSE,

and at such prices, as cannot but prove to be an inducement to

THOSE DESIRING TO BUILD.

All orders promptly filled, and a fair share of public patronage respectfully solicited.

SEWING MACHINE.

THE SINGER SEWING MACHINE.

Among sewing machines, those made by the Singer Manufacturing Company ranks with the highest. Their manufacturing machines have long been known as the best for manufacturing purposes. But within the past few years, they have given special attention to the production of a

FAMILY MACHINE,

destined to win much favor in the HOUSEHOLD.

The machine which they now offer is quite, light running, simple, fast, noiseless. Its accessories for

HEMMING, BRAIDING,

BINDING, TUCKING,

CORDING, FELLING,

GATHERING, &c., are simple and easily understood. Its delicate though enduring and tireless muscles of iron and steel, do all the work noiselessly, better, and few will deny, "Faster than hand can do it." They urge those wishing a machine, to examine all the other manufacturers before buying, as it will, for itself, overcome all the objections to the other machines that can be brought against it. Machines on hand for sale and exhibition, together with a full and complete assortment of

SILK, TWIST, LINEN OR COTTON THREAD,

and other accessories for the machines, by

INSURE YOUR LIFE IN THE

John Hancock

MUTUAL LIFE INSURANCE COMPANY

OF BOSTON, MASS.

This is a Mutual Company, and presents the advantages offered by other companies, and in addition, the Non-forfeiture Law, under which this Company was organized, as per example—a person aged 35 is insured in this company on the Life plan, as follows:

One Annual Premium will continue a Policy in force 2 years and 3 days.
Two Annual Premiums 4 yrs. & 12 days.
Three do do 6 do 27 do.
Four do do 8 do 46 do.
And so on, according to number of premiums paid.

The man who holds a Life Insurance Policy in this Company for $10,000, has better property to leave his family than his farm and stock of the same amount.

We wish energetic and responsible agents for this and adjoining counties. Applications from men of known respectability and integrity will only be entertained.
